Flier Has Virtually Been Exonerated In Shooting Of Fiance

Miami, Fla., April 22 (AP).—Mrs. Jessie M. Keith-Miller, woman flier, was virtually exonerated in the charge fatal shooting of her fiance, Lester Clarke, 31, but she faces further questioning in State Attorney Vernon Hawthorne's attempt to clear up the case.

Both Mrs. Keith-Miller and her flying partner, Captain W. N. Lancaster, were kept in custody last night. Hawthorne said he was convinced the woman was in no way connected with the actual shooting, but that he planned to question her and Lancaster further to try to determine if Clarke committed suicide or was slain.

While many things would substantiate a theory of suicide, Hawthorne said, "there are a number of facts which, taken either separately or together, hinder the final acceptance of that theory."

Mrs. Keith-Miller was released from jail under guard last night to attend private funeral services for Clarke.

Hawthorne would not say that Lancaster, a British flier who has taken part in several hazardous flying ventures with Mrs. Keith-Miller since 1927, had been cleared of all blame in the shooting. Both Lancaster and Mrs. Keith-Miller were held incommunicado yesterday.

Clarke was fatally wounded in his bed a few hours after he and Mrs. Keith-Miller told Lancaster of their plans to be married. The announcement was made, the fliers said, as the three visited in Mrs. Keith-Miller's home here.

Governor A. O. Morse Addressed Kiwanians At Spring Conference

Kiwanis Governor of New York State Spoke to Second Division on Friendships and Personal Service at Governor Clinton Hotel.

Speaking of the making of friendships and the Kiwanis motto, "We Build," in which he stressed the proper mental and spiritual building in preference to the material, Governor Arthur O. Morse of the New York State District of Kiwanis, addressed the Kingston Kiwanis Club and delegations and officers from other Kiwanis Clubs comprising the second division, at the Governor Clinton Hotel Thursday noon, the affair being the spring conference of the second division over which Lieut. Gov. R. Frederick Chidsey of Kingston presided.

At the noon luncheon, which was largely attended, welcomes and greetings were heard from Mayor Eugene Carey, President O. E. Brandorff of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, and President Arthur Nelson of the Kingston Rotary Club. Delegations were present from every club in the division, which includes Beacon, Hudson, Kingston, Middletown, Newburgh, Port Jervis and Poughkeepsie.

President Brandorff greeted the visitors and extended the welcome of the local club, inviting the visitors to see the Kiwanis Dental Clinic before the afternoon session of the conference took place.

Mayor Greets Guests.

He then called upon Mayor Carey who officially presented the freedom of the city saying "I would present the key to the city, but unfortunately no money was appropriated in the budget for a key, so accept by best wishes and greetings which I hope will be more lasting than a key which might be lost." Mayor Carey said that the Kiwanis Club in Kingston was a potent factor in the city's life, and as long as he was mayor he would appreciate the good work and welfare that was being dispensed by the local club.

President Nelson then extended greetings from the Rotary Club, and stated that his club was always ready to cooperate with Kiwanis in its projects.

Lieut. Gov. Chidsey announced that the Port Jervis Club would sponsor an inter-club meeting at High Point, near Port Jervis sometime in June at which time some 20 clubs from New York and Pennsylvania would gather to hear Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt and other prominent speakers. Mr. Chidsey then presented Gov. Morse as the speaker of the occasion.

Gov. Morse said he believed that Kiwanis creates friendships, that had been his experience over a number of years, and he cherished all of these contacts although he failed to remember the names of many he had met.

No Peak for Kiwanis.

"Many of us," he continued, "have been Kiwanians for many years, and there comes a time in the experience of the older members when it seems that Kiwanis has reached its peak. This is never really true, because there are more problems today than ever before that come within the scope of the club's activities. Kiwanis was founded upon a sound foundation, it has magnificent principles and with this heritage its opportunities increase with the years."

The speaker then explained that he wasn't referring to the material things, although these were to be considered the torch of Kiwanis. "One must put more into the club than one expects to get out, and in doing so he will find happiness for himself."

Tom Mooney Denied Pardon By Governor Ralph Of California

Mooney's Supporters Say Fight Will Continue—Has Been Denied Pardon by Gov. California Governor—Comment on Decision.

Sacramento, Calif., April 22 (AP).—As supporters of Tom Mooney gave notice his account with justice was not yet closed. His fight here and there covers on another chapter of the convicted dynamiter's struggle for freedom—the refusal of Governor James Rolph Jr. to grant a pardon.

The Governor of California—the fourth before whom the Mooney case has been brought—declared in a two-word decision announced at the state capitol yesterday he was convinced Mooney and Warren B. Billings, convicted accomplices, were guilty.

Varied comment greeted the decision, but Mooney and his supporters were confident in their predictions the fight would go on.

Among these was Fremont Older, San Francisco newspaper editor, who said: "The case is no more settled by Governor Rolph's action than it was before he made it." Mooney himself, in a statement released by the Moulders Defense Committee over his name, declared the struggle had gained added significance, with the assertion: "This makes me the outstanding figure in the world's labor movement and a symbol of the struggle of labor for its rights."

Another declaration in the statement was: "The decision of Governor Rolph is a class decision with a class motive and along these lines it shall be fought out in the future." The Governor's decision was based on a report given him by legal advisers appointed last December after consideration of the case had been urged by a group of attorneys led by Mayor James J. Walker of New York.

"These facts, taken in conjunction with all of the other matters above mentioned," he have convinced us that Thomas J. Mooney was guilty of the offense charged against him; that he was justly convicted by the jury before whom he was tried; and that the application made on his behalf for the pardon should be denied."

The "offense charged" was the bombing at a San Francisco street corner, during the 1916 Preparedness Day parade, which killed 10 persons and injured 40.

It was Governor Rolph himself, then mayor of San Francisco, who led the line of marchers as the blast roared out.

But details of the crime and investigation were left to a 125-page report submitted by the governor's chief adviser, Matt J. Sullivan, former California Supreme Court justice. The lengthy report also took opportunity to reply to those who have criticized the conviction of Mooney and Billings. It said:

"United States senators and members of the House of Representatives, governors of several states and even state legislatures have been influenced by the poisonous propaganda."

A statement, appearing in an International Defense League pamphlet, purporting to be signed by United States Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana, was attributed to "the same propaganda which influenced Senator Royal Copeland of New York to join his heart and soul with the material and immaterial vials of Tom Mooney."

Comment on Walker

Mayor Walker's plea at the hearing in San Francisco last December was referred to as "eloquence misapplied." Regarding the plea made by Walker and other attorneys, the report concluded:

"But we believe, however, that they must have been ignorant of the past life of Mooney, his record as a dynamiter, his public and private utterances in favor of anarchy and revolution, his publication of the 'Revolt' (a San Francisco paper Mooney published prior to the 1916 bombing); his connection with the 'Blast' (another publication), and the 'Blasters'."

The report denied Mooney and Billings were "representatives of labor," and added:

"Instead of being a representative of labor Mooney has been for many years an agitator, shunning physical labor. He has been a thorn in the side of labor for many years."

His hope of freedom shattered, Mooney returned to his duties as "vegetable man" in the San Quentin prison kitchen. His personal remark on the decision, he explained, was limited by prison restrictions.

Radio Appeal Made In Connection With Double Murder Case

New York, April 22 (AP).—Nassau county authorities depended today upon a radio appeal for clues with which to unravel the mystery of the double slaying of Edward B. Brinker, Jr., and Miss Rose Weik last Wednesday near Mineola.

Detectives sought to learn the movements of the couple in the hours just preceding the slaying. Believing they may have met their slayers in a speakeasy, the district attorney has virtually promised immunity to any speakeasy proprietor who will come forward with any information.

The police said they were convinced that the slaying grew out of Brinker's love affairs. Although he was living with Mrs. Josephine Brinker, his second wife, he was accepted as the suitor of Miss Weik.

Brinker was last seen in a restaurant at 130 Tuesday night, where he had been sent by his employers to adjust a difficulty arising out of the sale of an electric sign. The woman proprietress of the restaurant said he was very nervous, that he paced the floor and attracted the attention of patrons.

Veteran Trader Says Short Selling Could Depress The Market

Washington, April 22 (AP).—A veteran Wall Street trader, Matthew C. Brush, testified to the Senate Banking Committee today that under certain conditions short selling could depress the stock market, but he denied there had been bear raids in recent months.

Committee members leaned forward over the long table to hear every word, as the gray haired operator gave an inside story of playing the market and told of being as much as 125,000 shares on both sides of the market at various times.

Brush said short sales could depress the market by creating a supply in excess of demand, and drew a laugh when he added he expected to "get shot" when he returned to New York for that admission.

After the hearing, senators expressed themselves as pleased by the attitude taken by Brush. Senator Brookhart, (R., Iowa) one of the severest critics of Wall Street, shook hands with the witness.

The committee division over the inquiry, and the manner of conducting it, appeared openly, however. Senator Coughlin took William A. Gray, the counsel, to task for his manner of examination—contending he did not dig deeply enough into the situation.

Bear raiding, Brush said does not exist on the Exchange now because of restrictions placed on short selling.

Questioned, he said "I don't think my short account has any more effect on the condition of the country than a rabbit."

Brush did not reveal his present short holdings.

The committee was to hear Percy Rockefeller, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., at the afternoon session.

Prosecution to Call Alienists for Massie

Honolulu, April 22 (AP).—Seeking evidence to combat the insanity defense of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, the prosecution dug deeper into the field of medicine today while the accused navy officer and three others charged with lynching Joseph Kahahawai rested from the ordeal of their trial.

With court adjourned until tomorrow at the request of Prosecutor John C. Keller, two alienists imported by him from California made observations upon which to base their testimony.

They are Dr. Joseph Catton of San Francisco, whose testimony recently helped to convict Winnie Ruth Judd of the murder of two women in Phoenix, and Dr. Paul Bowers of Los Angeles.

Both arrived yesterday. Dr. Bowers stated the object of his coming. Dr. Catton refused to comment.

Massie and his co-defendants, Mrs. Granville Porteus, his mother-in-law, and E. J. Lord and Albert O. Jones, are charged with second degree murder, the penalty for which is from 20 years to life imprisonment.

MORE GRASS AND BRUSH FIRES REPORTED

Albany, N. Y., April 22 (AP).—The Conservation Department said today 29 hitherto unreported grass fires and brush fires had been reported by wardens up to midnight last night. This brings the total number of fires within the past few days to 103.

Most of the fires, the department said, were in southeastern counties, the largest covering 100 acres at Chapeaugus, Westchester county. A small amount of forest has been damaged.

No fires have occurred in the state forest preserve.

Judge Fowler Toastmaster

Toastmaster of the occasion will be Judge Joseph M. Fowler, an honorary member of Joyce-Schrick Post, who will introduce several prominent speakers including the guest of honor, Commander Coontz.

The V. F. W. head has a record of which every veteran is proud. Born in Hamilton, Mo., June 11, 1864, Robert E. Coontz received his preparatory education at Ingleside College, that city, and graduated in 1880. In 1885 he graduated from the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis and in 1926 was given the honorary degree of doctor of laws from the University of Missouri.

He was commissioned an ensign in the U. S. Navy, July 1, 1887 and was promoted through the grades to rear admiral in December 1917, and became a full-fledged admiral in October 1919. During his career Admiral Coontz spent six years in Alaskan service, was executive officer of the U. S. S. Nebraska on the voyage of the fleet around the world in 1908 and in 1914-15 acted as commandant of midshipmen at the U. S. Naval Academy and the following year was sent to the island of Guam as governor. His Spanish campaign medals from the Philippine American War, Vera Cruz and the World War. He also has received the Distinguished Service Medal from the U. S. government in recognition of his brilliant achievements. Admiral Coontz is now retired.

Black Cat Thwarts Science and Rotary In Radio Broadcast

Four Hundred Rotarians Wait in Van to Hear Radio Voices From Australia After Black Cat Crosses Trail.

Schenectady, N. Y., April 22 (AP).—While four hundred Rotarians waited in a van that at seven o'clock this morning for radio voices from the world, a black cat walked across the star.

Then things went wrong. London didn't come, and the signal was received clearly in the van, but the Australian program, which had been sent by the Rotarian Club, was interrupted by a black cat.

Cyril D. Wagoner, of the public relations staff of the General Electric Company, blames the cat. He said another attempt to broadcast the globe with Rotary greeting would be made tomorrow, and that the cat would be confined in a cage until the show was over.

The Rotarians are here for the annual convention of the 29th Rotary district.

Work Relief Has Enough Money to Carry Through May

An Additional $5,000 Received From State Affords Enough Money on Hand to Employ Idle Men During Greater Part of Next Month—Many Projects Nearing Completion.

At the meeting of the Emergency Work Relief Committee held at the Municipal Building on East O'Reilly street on Thursday afternoon it was announced that with the additional appropriation of $5,000 that has just been received from the state relief that the local board will likely have enough funds to carry on its work until the third, and possibly the fourth week of next month.

Al Capone Files Petition For Review

Washington, April 22 (AP).—Al Capone today filed in the Supreme court a petition asking a review of the action of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals affirming his conviction and penitentiary sentence on the charge of evading federal taxes.

In his petition Capone asserted that he had not been informed of the indictment filed against him of the nature and cause of certain accusations because the indictment had been drawn in general terms which he said was contrary to a rule of the supreme court.

Capone cited as a second ground for asking the review that certain counts in the indictment had been held by the lower courts to set up an offense against the United States when they did not allege that he had failed to pay taxes. This he asserted had failed to bring him within the statute he was charged with violating.

Capone was sentenced to 16 years at Leavenworth penitentiary and an additional term of one year in the county jail following his conviction on the charge of violating the federal income tax law.

STRIKERS AND SUBSTITUTES ENGAGE IN SCUFFLES

New York, April 22 (AP).—Minor scuffling and fist fights broke out today between striking longshoremen and substitute workers.

The longshoremen walked out a week ago today in protest against wage cuts posted by three coastwise steamship lines.

As substitute workers neared the piers to go to work today they were met by small groups of pickets, and the discussions frequently ended in blows. None of the scuffling was violent or prolonged.

The first arrests in the strike were made today after three strikers attempted to drive away with a truck which was leaving Pier 46 of the Savannah line.

Nick Muscala, who was ordered from the truck called a patrolman, who arrested American Marconi and Charles Parola. The third man escaped.

Y. M. C. A. Campaign J. Warren Keifer. Ends With Total of $12,445.99 Realized Last of Civil War Generals. Is Dead

Thursday night the final meeting of the campaign for funds for the Y. M. C. A. of the city was held in the assembly hall in the presence of a large number of guests.

The meeting opened with a song, then Paul Zucca, secretary of the Y. M. C. A., gave a report on the progress of the campaign.

General Keifer, former commander of the 1st Iowa Cavalry, was the guest of honor. He was introduced by Paul Zucca.

General Keifer was known as "Springfield" and was a member of the International Union of Peace Officers, and addressed that organization at Brussels, August 30, 1910.

He was elected to congress in 1877 and served four consecutive terms, being speaker of the house in the 47th congress, 1881-1883. In 1891 he again was chosen a congressman and served three more consecutive terms.

When the Spanish-American War started President McKinley appointed Keifer a major general of volunteers, assigned to command the first division, Seventh Army Corps at Manila, P. I.

Later he was made commander-in-chief of the Spanish-American War veterans, having previously served as department commander in Ohio, of the Grand Army of the Republic.

Japan's mission, he said, was to make Manchuria a "paradise on earth, safe for everybody," and nothing the League or anybody else did could make Japan deviate from that course.

Asserting that Japan would resist resolutely any attempt by the League to apply the Nine-Power Treaty, Araki then turned to "Strict Russia," he called attention to what he said was a threatening situation in North Manchuria due to Russia's massing of troops on the frontier and strengthening her air force in the Far East.

"We are unable to understand what these war-like preparations mean," he said. "The situation is becoming serious. Russia is concentrating four divisions in Siberia on the Manchurian border. We can only wait and see whether the situation breaks."

"It is time the Japanese made up their minds to cooperate wholeheartedly with the new regime in Manchuria for the establishment of a great civilization in the Far East," he continued. "The League of Nations or Soviet Russia may attempt to frustrate our efforts, since both object to our activities in that region, but they won't be permitted to turn us from our course. It is unnecessary for us to heed what they may say about us."

"A certain country is talking about applying the Nine-Power Treaty in Manchuria. Japan will resolutely oppose such an attempt." In authoritative quarters it was indicated Japan's already badly weakened ties with the League were further strained by the recent resolution of the committee of nineteen on the situation at Shanghai. The foreign office spokesman declined to reveal the nature of the government's latest instructions to the delegation at Geneva, but it was understood Mr. Nakazawa heretofore has been most conciliatory in unofficial conversations with Mr. Paul Hymans and other members of the committee of nineteen.

The spokesman denied that a breaking-off of these conversations had been ordered, but a growing amount was evident in official circles for bringing to a head the whole issue of Japan's relation to the League.

THE CHURCH THAT FOUND
IT PAID TO ADVERTISE

Pann Yan, N. Y., April 22 (A.P.)—"Number Nine Church," as it is known throughout Central New York, needed members and money, a few years back, to carry it along toward its 125th anniversary, which it is ready to celebrate now. But there weren't many in the countryside who didn't already belong. What to do? Little "Number Nine" took a tip from "big business" and advertised.

Signs were placed along the roadside to catch the eye of the motorist. They told of the peace and restfulness of divine worship in a rural atmosphere. Soon flocks of visitors joined the handful of Presbyterian members at Sunday services. The church got a cash balance on hand, and has held it ever since.

Andalusian Shrine
Montserrat is foremost among the attractions of Andalusia. This huge mass of rocks is more than fifteen miles around the base, rising in fantastic shapes to 4,000 feet. Perched on its side, besides the Benedictine monastery, is a chapel erected in honor of the Virgin of Montserrat, to which shrine thousands of Catalans make a pilgrimage every year.

Not Of Harvard Students Halted

Darrow's Hand Cut In Freak Accident

Cambridge, Mass., April 22 (AP).—A group of Harvard undergraduates, known by police as one of the "wild" groups of recent years, was brought to a halt today after eight students and four Cambridge residents had been arrested and two police officers injured.

Scores of students invaded the premises of Kadcliffe College, a women's institution, an automobile was overturned, the Brattle Square station of the Cambridge police department was stormed as hundreds of undergraduates attempted to rescue comrades who had been taken into custody, and bonfires were built in Harvard Square.

The students arrested gave their names as: Martin Johnston, Lexington, Mass.; Thomas Palmer, Chicago; David F. Martin, Jr., Swampscott; Louis de Blois, New York; Ray Edwards, Newburgh, N. Y.; Nelson W. Austin, Brookline; Donald Anderson, New Rochelle, N. Y.; and William A. Elling, who gave only his home address.

De Blois was charged with refusing to move for a police officer and the other seven were charged with disturbing the peace. Additional charges of driving to endanger and driving an automobile with no lights were placed against Johnston.

The injured officers were Special Officer Joseph P. Breen of the Cambridge police, whose face was injured by the explosion of a tear gas bomb, and Charles Apted, superintendent of the Harvard yard police, whose leg was injured by an automobile.

The disorder started in the yard when a group of freshmen began a search of the bell clapper stolen from Memorial Hall several days ago.

Says Committee Lacks Leadership

Washington, April 22 (AP).—Representative Fish (R., N. Y.), an opponent of full payment of the bonus, turned upon the house ways and means committee today and charged it with a lack of "nerve and leadership" for not bringing out legislation to meet the economic crisis.

He urged a billion dollar bond issue for a two-year program to keep people employed.

Fish was one of several house veterans of the World War who opposed payment of the two billion dollars outstanding on the bonus certificates, contending issuance of that amount of new currency under the Espionage bill would force the country to the gold standard.

Children Clinics To Be Held in May

The President has appointed May as Child Health Day. This is a time when parents should give attention to the physical and mental well being of their children. In keeping with this the Board of Health is sponsoring a clinic for the examination of children from the ages of six months to six years. This will be held at the Knights of Columbus Hall from May 9 to 13 inclusive. One hundred and fifty children will be examined at this time and admission will be by appointment card only. Parents are urged to get in touch with the presidents of the Parent-Teacher Associations in their respective districts or representatives of the parochial schools who have these cards.

It is desired that only apparently well children be brought to the clinic. There may be in any child some slight physical defect which may have gone unnoticed by the parent.

that is capable of correction. It is the purpose of this clinic to give the child a complete physical examination to search out these defects as early as possible and the child may enter school in an normal and healthy condition as possible. There are many abnormal conditions occurring in children which if not remedied early may affect their entire personality development. We have many times seen children in school who failed to get along in their work because of being unable to see or hear well, infected tonsils and had teeth also play their part in producing organic disease and lowering the resistance of the child generally. Tuberculosis, if existing in a child, should be discovered as early as possible so that something may be done before it is too late. Many children are slow in learning and fail to get along in school because of these defects and if it is possible to improve their physical health this should be done.

Therefore, the Board of Health urges parents to bring their children to this clinic or if they are unable to do so to bring them to their family physician during the month of May and give them the benefit of a thorough examination so that existing defects may be corrected during the summer months and they may enter school in the fall with healthy minds and healthy bodies, capable of assimilating to the fullest the knowledge imparted to them and fitting them for their future life as citizens and rulers of the country.

Mother—I don't think the man upstairs likes Willie to play on his drum.

Father—Why? Mother—Well, this afternoon he gave Willie a knife and asked him if he knew what was inside the drum.

The school inspector had been questioning the class for some time. Presently he said:

Inspector—I wish I were a boy again and back at school. (He paused) Do you know why I wish that?

For a second or two there was silence. Then a grimy hand shot up. Inspector—Well? Youth—Cos you've forgotten all you've ever known.

Now Aren't We All? There's so much sense in the dumbest of us. And so much folly in the wisest of us. That it scarcely becomes any of us To yell "crazy" at the rest of us.

First Machinist—Was the shop foreman surprised at your leaving? Second Machinist—Well, no. He knew it before I did.

And then there was the traveling salesman who had never seen a farm house. Hot air always rises, which may be the reason why a lot of men have reached the top of their professions. Joyful Jeanette says the male may be superior, but he can't drop three ounces of cheer fabric over his head and call himself dressed.

Bride—You must not expect me to give up my girlhood ways all at once. Bridgroom—Certainly not, my dear. Go on taking an allowance from your father as if nothing had happened.

When the Paper Doesn't Come.

My father says the paper he reads isn't put up right. He finds a lot of fault, he does, perusing it all night. He says there ain't a single thing in it worthwhile to read. And that it doesn't print the kind of stuff the people need. He tosses it aside and says it's strictly on the bum. But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

He reads about the wedding and he snorts like all get out. He reads the social don's with a most derisive shout. He says they make the paper for the women folks alone. He'll read about the parties and he'll fume and fret and groan. He says of information it doesn't have a crumb. But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

He's always first to grab it and he reads it plumb clean through. He doesn't miss an item or a want ad—this is true. He says they don't know what we want. The darn newspaper guys. I'm going to take a day sometime and go and put 'em wise. Sometimes it seems as though they must be blind and deaf and dumb. But you ought to hear him holler when the paper doesn't come.

RUSSIAN STAR LEARNS NEW LANGUAGES WITH EASE

ANNA STEN

Hollywood (AP)—Learning a new language to fit a stage or screen role is no trick for Anna Sten, Russian star who hopes to continue her continental success in Hollywood.

Miss Sten, who before coming to America was on the stage and screen in Russia, once was given a part in a German film. She learned the new language in three weeks. Asked to play in the French version of the same film, she mastered French in two weeks.

Her last picture, "The Tempest," co-starred her with Emil Jannings. She is to have the stellar role in at least one American film this year.

TREES SERVE TO OUTLINE PREHISTORIC POPULATION

Ann Arbor, Mich. (AP)—Indians lived among the maples and not among the "tall whispering pines," according to Dr. Wilbert B. Hinsdale of the University of Michigan, who says that roughly the prehistoric population can be checked by noting the vegetation.

"Indians procured very little, if any, kind of food from conifers," he says. "Animals whose flesh made human food could not subsist upon resinoid kinds of trees, such as pines, spruce, etc. Surface geology is one of the determining factors of a population. The flora depends on which of the alternate drifts of sands, clays and gravels is uppermost.

"Coniferous trees did not furnish desirable wood for fires because these woods throw sparks and if used inside would burn down the lodges."

POISON GAS EFFECTIVE IN KILLING OF RODENTS

Livermore, Cal. (AP)—Poison gas is being used in Alameda county to kill rodents. T. S. McGraw, in charge of the work, has found it better than poison grain.

The device to kill ground squirrels was developed by McGraw and Al Schmitt. They perfected a machine which burns straw and sulphur and forces poison gas into the ground. Tests proved it 95 per cent efficient, while grain is from 40 to 60 per cent effective.

Twelve sacks of straw are used as fuel, and the machine operates at a capacity of 40 pounds of crude sulphur a day. Several lines of hose are inserted in squirrel holes and the gas pumped in after being generated in a steel tank.

Kingston: "Man Wanted," a Warner Brothers picture directed by William Dieterle, now enjoying a very successful run at the Strand in New York. The story is one of a woman who edits a smart magazine while her playboy husband devotes his time to polo and petting. The cast: Lois May Francis; Tom, David Manners; Fred, Kenneth Thomson; Ruth, Una Merkel; Andy Devine.

Orpheum: "Peach O'Reno" and "Huckleberry Finn." Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey offer some amusing comedy in this talkie of Reno and the divorce problem. Lots of laughs, along with good acting by the two stars, helped along by Dorothy Lee and Zelma O'Neal. "Huckleberry Finn" is an enjoyable story of boyhood with a cast that includes Jackie Coogan, Mizzi Green, Junior Durkin and Jackie Seale.

Broadway: "Impatient Maiden" and "Seven Acts of Paramount Vaudeville" on the stage, assisted by Jacob Molloy and his orchestra. The latter stars Lew Ayres, and features Mae Clarke in an entertaining story of a young doctor who decides to reform a girl who doesn't want to be reformed. This play was directed by James Whale who was also the director of the successful "Journey's End" and "Frankenstein." The work of Lew Ayres in this talkie is his best effort in some time, and Mae Clarke proves her right to be classed as a coming star. Good entertainment. The stage presentation features seven acts of diversified vaudeville entertainment.

Ritz: "Cuban Love Song." Tibbett's glorious singing, Lupe Velez's sure fire romance, and the comical James "Schnozzle" Durante all work harmoniously together toward an evening of exceptional entertainment. It's the blithe story of three American Marines, played by Lawrence Tibbett, Jimmy Durante, and Ernest Torrence. While in Cuba, Tibbett falls in love with a warm-blooded peanut vendor, played by Lupe Velez. War comes, the Marines move to another port of call, and the Cuban girl is forgotten. That's a rough idea of the plot, but the magnetism and inspiring songs of Lawrence Tibbett are enough to make any picture worth seeing and hearing. Swell entertainment.

Tomorrow.

Kingston: "Dancers in the Dark." The story of a dime, a dance girl, who looks for and discovers romance in the glare of a public dance palace. Miriam Hopkins is the girl, and her performance is noteworthy and enjoyable. Jack Oakie, as the orchestra leader who tries to keep his pal from falling in love with the girl, just about steals the show with one of his finest screen characterizations. A splendid cast helps along an already entertaining story. William Collier, Jr., Eugene Pallette and George Raft all contribute exceptional bits of acting. Good entertainment.

Future Danish King To Visit America As Trade Emissary For His Nation

Copenhagen, (AP)—Prince Frederik, heir to the Danish throne, expects to cross the Atlantic some time this year for a visit to the United States.

Two years ago he toured the orient to stimulate trade with Siam, China and Japan.

Now Danish-American trade needs a stimulant. Denmark buys from the United States about 55 times the amount which American imports take from Denmark, and unless this is changed America may lose a profitable market.

Prince Frederik, who is 37 and a bachelor, is a full-blown captain in the Danish navy, and has gone through all the grades from cadet in the usual routine way.

Had he been born a commoner he probably would have chosen music for his career. He plays the violin well, is a composer of note and musicians deem him an able conductor.

Tall and somewhat shy, the prince is well liked by his naval comrades. There is, however, nothing dramatic about him; he holds the view that democracy and royalty are opposite poles, and that a democratic prince of Denmark would be as nonsensical as a royal president of the United States.

Like his fellow bachelor the Prince of Wales, Frederik has heard his name coupled with those of various European princesses. There are, however, few young royal ladies eligible for his hand. Most European princesses who rank with him are married or betrothed already.

Americans may see Crown Prince Frederik of Denmark in this naval uniform. He hopes to visit the United States this year.

The Danish constitution prevents the prince from taking his bride from outside the pale of royalty. Should he choose her from among the nobility or the bourgeoisie, he could do so only by resigning his rights to the Danish throne.

CUPID'S BUSINESS GOOD AT OFFICE OF WOMAN MAGISTRATE

Wilkesboro, N. C. (AP)—The "marrying magistrate" in this case is a woman—Miss Gail Bumgarner.

Three hundred twenty-five wedding ceremonies have been performed by Miss Bumgarner since she became a magistrate in 1928, and a glance at her record books shows Cupid's business is good.

Miss Bumgarner said there is "nothing unusual about my marriage ceremonies. They are part of the daily routine in my office."

The young magistrate said she had faced couples from the age of 16 to brides and grooms of 80, at all hours of the day and night, but never since the first ceremony, she added, has she been in the least nervous.

Miss Bumgarner said she always included the word "obey" in her ceremonies, "but it is not for me to know if every word of the solemn vow is kept by my couples."

Mexico Halts Buried Treasure Hunt; Government Lacks Research Funds

Mexico City (P)—Discovery of the valuable collection of gold ornaments and jewels in the Mixtec tomb at Monte Alban, State of Oaxaca, has brought a renaissance of archaeological interest in Mexico.

But the renaissance, unfortunately, finds the archaeological department without funds to pursue the rapidly interesting leads developed within recent weeks.

Hundreds of thousands of dollars and many years of painstaking work are needed to carry out complete excavations at Monte Alban, where prehistoric Indians leveled off and re-modeled whole mountain tops with their curious edifices.

The government has only a few thousand pesos to continue that work, and none at all to follow up finds made since in Guerrero and Michoacan, states which are virtually unknown as archaeological store-houses.

The interest stirred by the Monte Alban discoveries in January of Professor Alfonso Caso brought to light at least three other important finds within a short time.

At Tacupa, Michoacan, an abandoned city was discovered and yielded valuable gold relics and carved monuments which are as much a puzzle as the graven relics of Monte Alban.

A rancher in Guerrero wrote the archaeological department that he had by chance opened a mound on his farm, and found things of interest. Having no funds for an investigation, the department asked the man to submit photographs, but the honest soul instead brought his finds to the capital.

They included hundreds of jewels, gold filigree work and precious stones—the whole worth a fortune.

Now archaeologists working in a small way and with private funds have disclosed prehistoric remains within the world-famous pyramid of Cholula, just north of the city of Puebla. This pyramid, largest in the world, is crowned with a Spanish church which looms in loveliness on the spot where pagan Aztecs sacrificed thousands of humans.

Where Prehistoric Man Labored

Excavations in this church-crowned "hill" near Puebla, Mexico, disclosed the existence of a man-made prehistoric pyramid, the largest of its kind in the world. Interest in the mound was awakened by discoveries at Monte Alban, a similar site, by Prof. Alfonso Caso (right), Mexican government archaeologist.

The formidable size and decayed state of this pyramid always has challenged science, and now trenches and tunnels sunk into what appears to be a hill have revealed walls, paintings and stairways. The explorers are pushing on toward the center, hoping to find treasure in a central vault. It has been suggested that the jewels already taken out of the Mixtec burial chambers be sent abroad on an exhibition tour in order to raise funds to continue the exploration. But many Mexicans are suspicious of this plan, fearing the million dollar treasure would be lost to Mexico by such an experiment.

News All Over The Empire State

(By The Associated Press)

Plattsburgh—Hundred-car freight trains may be hourly occurrences on some railroads, but in this Northern New York region of many curves and steep grades trains of over 70 cars are a rarity. Thus when two long trains, one of 90 and the other of 100 cars, rumbled over the Champlain division of the Delaware and Hudson Railroad recently the event was considered worthy of note. The unusual length of the trains was attributed to railroad economy efforts.

Ausable Forks—Death separated Mr. and Mrs. Jule A. Votraw almost on the eve of their golden wedding anniversary. The couple were nearing the end of their 49th year of their married life when Votraw became ill and died.

Carthage—John Costan, owner of a candy store in this village, lost a valuable diamond ring. Later he learned that the ring had been found by a Vermont confectioner in a shipment of candy which had been sent from Costan's store here.

Glens Falls—Union carpenters have reduced their wage scale 12 cents an hour, fixing the scale at one dollar an hour. The carpenters will receive $4.50 less a week.

Crown Point—Relics recently unearthed at Crown Point State Park include cannon balls and a hatchet. Local historians believe they were used by French or English soldiers during their occupation of the fortress which stood at this point in early American history.

Rochester—Who lives outside the city and why is what the Monroe County Planning Board and the Rural Social Organization of the State College of Agriculture want to know. They are cooperating in a house-to-house canvass in towns outside this city.

WOULD RIVAL MONTE CARLO
AT BRITISH SHORE TOWNS.

London (P)—Agitation for gambling casinos at British south coast resorts has grown apace this winter with increasing effort to keep tourists and their money in Britain.

Dr. W. Harris, nerve specialist, gave the movement impetus with suggestion that halls where "holiday makers can have a flutter" would be a good thing for the British people and help reduce taxation of the coast towns.

The authorities of several cities are in favor of casinos, to enable English resorts to compete with Deauville and Monte Carlo.

Fashions by Eleanor Gunn

The Parisienne Has the Bi-Color Idea on the Brain

New York—The bi-color hat, a Paris favorite, begins to be impressive here. It is not unusual to see one side of a hat one color and the opposite side another, or to find the crown black or navy blue outlined in white.

There is a hat worn by several elite Parisiennes according to accuracy, which is made of circles of various colors, such as black with two shades of blue. The skull cap forms one circle, and over it, set toward the left, is outlined a circle of the same color, while a circle of still another color is set toward the other side. When white flowers are used for a small hat, they are usually bunched into a band, which often forms one side of the hat.

Paris is divided between very smart straws and those of a dull tinted or crocheted effect. Larger hats appear to be coming in and are featured prominently in window displays. Sailors are arriving in great numbers.

In planning clothes for sports or resort wear, or even for town, do not overlook the smart handmade sweaters that have proven themselves such jolly substitutes for blouses. For that matter, do not be so misjudged as to discount the importance of all manner of knitted things, especially suits and two-piece dresses. They are going to play an important part in the summer wardrobe. Knitting your own may appeal to you. If so, you will have plenty of company. Sweaters are very short, or else are worn under the skirt and slightly bloused. Necklines are higher, and rolled and turtle types are worn.

Another sports item, one that is bound to interest the tailored type of woman, is the shirt-silk blouse—or shirt, as it is more often called. Still another suit accessory is the waistcoat fashioned of a scarf, the ends of which are held by a belt. Separate belts are everywhere and on almost everything. They are elaborated by slides and buckles, or by metal eyelets.

Lace in Many Interesting Guises

New York—Handmade and old-time laces are given new and modern interpretations, as evidenced in a wide Cluny edge bordering small tailored collar and cuffs of Irish lace. Embroidered flit gains new interest here. Circular collars, sweetheart shapes and surplice effects all appear. Vests of Alcon lace are effective. Interest centers on lace versions in bow sets, bibs and gilets developed in Irish lace, embroidered flit, Breton and occasionally, embroidered batists. Sleevelets of Irish lace illustrate the tendency to deep expressions in cuffs reaching to the elbow and offering possibilities as under-sleeves for shoulder capelet styles. Sleevelets of Breton lace are very bow sets, bibs and gilets developed chic.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

The coat-dress continues to be important, done in cloth, lightweight, as well as in crepe. The Schiaparelli dress that wraps around and fastens at the side-back from shoulder to waistline, with a free movement below, is one of the most frequently seen imports.

Navy and white, brown and white, and black and white are leaders in prints in jacket costumes and also in dresses, with stripes and plaids in unusual arrangements adding greatly to the interest. The stripes sometimes play lines of flowers, while the plaids often combine a slender line with a small block pattern.

The liking for navy blue is extended in sheers, rough crepes and heavy sheers. In daytime dresses and also in dinner and evening types, with lace also included in the latter groups and sometimes combined with chiffon.

OLD LUKE NEVER WAS FISHER OR KNOCKED DOWN.

Kingston, N. Y., April 20, 1932. Kingston Freeman.

Editor: I noticed a letter in the Tuesday Eve. Freeman signed Percy Perkins. Whata name. It might mean anything. It was directed toward me so feel justified in answering it. To put folks on the right track, your Uncle Lukas was never a fisherman, so when anyone in Ulster county or any other county claims to have gone fishing with me in my youth, presto, they need a mental exam pronto. That also goes for anyone who can prove that they or anyone they ever knew, ever knocked me down, be they bigger or be they smaller.

However if Percy knows me as well as he seems to think he does, I would be glad to have him make himself known so we could have one of those good old times together he speaks of.

Yours for better times, LUKE HIGGINS.

Spain Plans Air Mail Madrid (AP)—With an appropriation of $50,000 voted by the assembly, the department of communications is mapping its first governmental air mail lines. The service will work in cooperation with military and civil aviation.

SCARF AND YOKE IN ONE

(Copyright, 1932, by Fairchild)

This tailored street dress is fashioned of black canton crepe, the skirt suggesting a high waistline in the molded treatment and seamed detail. Contrast is introduced in the scarf that forms a yoke and knots at the back. The burtoned hipline and wrapped movement are in the 1932 spirit.

Poles Outnumber French Caen, France (AP)—Twenty years ago the little Norman village of Norigy had never seen a foreigner. Now the aliens, chiefly Polish farm hands, outnumber the French by 1,511 to 705.

One secret of getting ahead

You need good health to succeed. Many a man has seen his chances go because he was too sick to keep pace with competition. Often his poor health was due to constipation. This ailment frequently causes headaches, loss of energy, sleeplessness. It takes the "punch" out of your day's work.

Try eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Science shows this delicious cereal supplies "bulk" to exercise the intestines, and Vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. Also iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than using pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoonfuls daily will correct most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

In the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

 (Clarksburg, W. Va.)—Urchins need no longer fear an attack from the bear (for the front fence) as they climb through the hole in the fence to see the Clarksburg baseball team play "Official holes," just big enough to admit "skinny" and "bidge" free, have been ordered cut in the fence by the club management.

Chicago—William Kurnath, 17, is pondering the adage about golden silence. Police were questioning his best pal, John Fuks, 18, about a robbery when Fuks's tongue slipped. "I don't know anything about that shooting," police said he blurted out. They quizzed him some more, and as a result arrested Kurnath for a murder. Until the slip of the tongue, detectives said, neither lad was suspected of the murder.

Perth, Western Australia—There wasn't a dry lip in the house as mourners bemoaned the passing of John Jones, civil servant, following instructions in his will, each mourner received two of the largest and coolest glasses of beer in Australia.

New York—"You were a great help—I don't think," said Miss Frances Maddux, night club singer, to Tommy, her terrier, as she picked herself out of the dust. A woman had snatched Miss Maddux's pocketbook and dashed off. As the singer started in pursuit Tommy, thinking it a lark, tangled himself all up in her feet and she fell headlong.

Boston—Alley cats here may be tough, but a scrapper from over the seas took the blue ribbon at an alley cat show. His name is Syrup and he comes from Syria. The other entries arched their backs and glared, evidently hoping to meet him on a back fence some dark night.

FEDERATED P. T. A. HAD MEETING WEDNESDAY

The regular meeting of the Federated Council of P. T. A.'s was held Wednesday afternoon with Mrs. Clearwater presiding. In the absence of Mrs. Kelley, Mrs. John Roberts acted as secretary for the meeting. Reports from the various units were given, the message from the state president was read and various other matters of business were taken up, especially those pertaining to the spring conference which is to be held in this city May 21. A pageant, "Children of Old Glory," is being planned to be presented at that time, the cast being made up of children from all the schools.

The speaker of the afternoon was Mr. Meagher of School No. 5 and the head of the night school who spoke on "Night School, Its Problems and Methods of Meeting Same," which was most interesting and instructive. Mrs. Anderson consented to take charge of a "Question Box" for the next meeting and the various units were asked to send in questions which when answered may help them in their unit programs.

Schools No. 2, No. 6 and No. 8 told of the purchases of eye glasses, basketballs, groceries, clothing and shoes for the children of their respective schools. School No. 7 reported the continuance of serving milk to the undernourished, also of the efforts that is to be put on in the school building May 6 for the purpose of replenishing the treasury to make possible this service.

ESKIMOS ADOPTING WAYS OF WHITE MAN

Tribes of the North Turn to Trapping and Trading.

Washington.—The Eskimos, according to dispatches from the far North, are slowly changing. Each year more and more of these remote guardians of the last frontier are adopting white men's ways.

In Alaska and western Canada, many Eskimos have broken away from hunting and fishing to most practical food and clothing wants and have become trappers and traders. In Greenland and northern Labrador the Eskimo has clustered around the mission stations, adopting the white man's style of house, rather than the old igloo, and skin tents, and harvesting sales for the white man's canned foods, firearms, clothing and photographs.

"The Eskimos were the first people met by Europeans on American shores, but they are still among the least known, and certainly the least seen, of all native American tribes," says a bulletin from the National Geographic society. "Scandinavians came in contact with Eskimos in Greenland and in Labrador in the Tenth and Eleventh centuries. Since that time the Eskimos' main contacts with the white man have been through explorers, missionaries, police officers, and occasional trappers and prospectors.

"Eaters of Raw Fish."
The name Eskimo is said to have been given by Blard in 1611 in the form "Escommiuquois". It means "eaters of raw fish."

"Considering their limited numbers, the Eskimos cover a tremendous range. The total Eskimo population of the world has been estimated at only 30,000, but Eskimo villages can be found here and there throughout the coasts of Arctic America from eastern Greenland and northern Labrador to the westernmost parts of Alaska, and even on the tip of Asia across the Bering strait.

"Throughout this distance, more than 5,000 miles, the Eskimo speaks one language, a strange tongue which requires a vocabulary of 10,000 words. As in Chinese, inflection is very important. Few outsiders learn it, although a "bible English" has sprung up which some explorers and missionaries mistake for the Eskimo language.

"Twenty six Eskimos live on or near the coast because they get most of their food from the sea. They raise no vegetables, supplementing their diet in summer with wild berries and roots. In summer they hunt land animals and birds, as a rule, and in the winter they live on sea mammals and fish.

"Where best affected by the white man's civilization—along the Arctic coast of Canada and in the islands north of Hudson Bay—the Eskimo is perhaps the healthiest and happiest person on earth. The village is the largest social unit. There are no chiefs or rulers. "Leading men" have influence but no authority. Large animals are shared with others, and personal property is scarce. For one tribe never makes war against another. Along many of the coasts of the Northwest territories in Canada the Eskimo still hunts with bows and arrows, and harpoons, in little skin boats, or kayaks.

"Live in Igloos."
While snow houses, or igloos, are always associated with Eskimos, about half the Eskimo world does not know them at all. Igloos are almost never used in Labrador or in Alaska. Where the white man's frame house is not obtainable the native Eskimo lives in a dugout covered with seal, the roof being supported by poles or animal bones. In the summer the skin tent, or tupik, is used, particularly while on hunting forays.

"The igloo, perhaps the most unusual of all dwellings, is made of blocks of snow, with a clear place of ice for a window. Beds and benches are of ice, with warm furs on top. A shallow pan made of stone or iron, shaped somewhat like a duncepan, is used for a lamp or stove. Along the flat side is a dry moss for a wick. Inside the pan is seal oil. The cooking kettle is suspended above the pan. Iron kettles and pans are of recent use, and are acquired from the white man, because the Eskimo has no iron, and very little wood.

"In Greenland and Labrador Eskimos have known white men for nearly 600 years, but there are still, in some parts of the Arctic, Eskimos who have seen only an occasional explorer. White men's diseases have killed more than two-thirds of all Eskimos since the first contacts with them, but the population is now about stationary.

"Brought in Alaska, Eskimos do not live along regular steamship or tourist routes. The Eskimo seldom can be induced to leave his northland, and the few who have been lured away have returned as quickly as possible."

Six-Year-Old Memphis Miss Is Bridge Expert

Memphis, Tenn.—The Charles T. Chalmers family, which includes six-year-old Ardis, doesn't go outside the household when they want bridge partners, excepting to get one person. Little Ardis is an expert player and already bridge teachers here have forecast a brilliant future for her in that field.

County Clear Land
Sacramento, Calif.—The state of California has in its employ 800 guards which are working in Sutter county, clearing 200 acres of cut-over land.

Not to Be Trusted
Never put much confidence in such as get no confidence in others. A man prone to suspect evil is mostly looking in his neighbor for what he sees in himself. As to the pure evil things are pure so to the impure all things are impure.—Hare.

Late Spring Wear Flaunts Spotted Motif

Spotted effects smartly accent the late spring styles. In the suit at left the spotted motif is carried out with a sheer polka dot cotton print which makes the blouse and lines the jacket. In the coat at right polka dot material is used for lining. Matching scarfs lend chic to both outfits. The spotted effect in the hat above worn by Adrienne Ames, actress, is obtained by drawing a brown velvet ribbon through the weave of the rough beige straw.

News of Today In Kingston

If the political dopesters, who have come forth with their predictions, are right, the fair city of Kingston will be the center of the gubernatorial race this fall. For it has been forecast and broadcast that the Republican party will select Philip Elting as its candidate, while the Democratic party will choose Dr. George F. Chandler. If such is the case, Kingston is sure to place a native son in the governor's chair in Albany.

Grass fires are in full swing now. The firemen are kept busy going here and there with their brooms and chemicals to subdue a grass or brush blaze.

These fires are caused through carelessness and many times are set deliberately by boys with little thought that they might cause serious property damage and even endanger life.

Remember, every time these men travel on the fire engines their life is at stake, so don't make them take unnecessary trips.

There has been considerable discussion of late about the proposition of reserving the city tennis courts in the evening for adults. In past years the courts have been monopolized by children both during the day and evening. This is not at all fair to the young working man or girl who would like to get a set or two of tennis in during the evening.

This move has a large number of supporters, and their ideas are not radical. It is not their purpose to prevent the children from playing, but to take them from them, but since there is no school in the summer months, the youngsters can play in the morning and afternoon, but the evening should be reserved for the older folk.

If the city officials don't think there are a good number supporting this move, just ask the tennis players and they'll send you a petition with everything but the gold seal and blue ribbon.

It's beginning to look as though Marie Schmeling is a life saver without the suit. According to reports the whole country is steamed up over Max's training quarters. Just think what that will mean to the city. Kingston ought to be printed on the map in heavier type.

On Wednesday evening, April 27, Kingston will be honored by a distinguished guest, Sir Hubert Wilkins. The explorer will lecture in the auditorium of Kingston High School. He is being brought here by the Prisma Society of the high school.

GOV. ROOSEVELT WILL TESTIFY FOR BRODERICK

Albany, N. Y., April 22 (AP)—Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt will break his southern trip, starting Sunday, long enough to testify for Joseph A. Broderick, state superintendent of banks, on April 29. Broderick is accused of neglect of duty.

Mr. Roosevelt will attend the governors' conference in Richmond, Va., next week, will attend a White House dinner for the governors on Thursday night, and then will return to New York city. After testifying on Friday, he will go to Warm Springs, Georgia, for a three weeks' vacation.

The Governor expects to name the State Banking Board members before he leaves Sunday. The new board will have eight members, with the superintendent of banking as chairman.

Other appointments the Governor is considering are those of the St. Lawrence Park Commission and a counsel to the Governor. The St. Lawrence Park body will not be named until Mr. Roosevelt returns from Georgia. The commission was created by the last legislature.

BOSSING YOURSELF

MOST young men, starting out in business look forward eagerly to the time when they can be their own boss, and there are, I suppose, business girls who envy their married friends because so far as their daily work is concerned they are free from supervision.

But it is one thing to be your own boss and quite another to have no boss at all, and women who let housewifely work and responsibilities get the better of them are the ones who have worked without a boss.

And they never will succeed at a rather complicated business until they realize that the housewife's task is twofold. It consists of planning and strict supervision, and willing, careful carrying out of plans and directions. And they have to do it all themselves.

The girl who doesn't know how to boss herself drags about her work, doing the first things that present themselves. She has no one there to tell her what to do next and her only hope is that before the day is over it will have occurred to her to do the things that need to be done.

The girl who bosses herself starts out every day with the bossing. She thinks of what has to be done and she thinks of the most convenient ways of doing it. Often she thinks of herself, the worker, quite as impersonally as she would an employee. And before she resigns her post as boss she wisely makes out a list of precisely what must be ordered and done and may even estimate about how long should be spent in accomplishing each task.

Adjourn Mangan Trial To Monday

Cooperstown, N. Y., April 22 (AP)—Court rested today in the trial of Thomas J. Mangan and two other directors of the looted State Bank of Binghamton.

The case was adjourned yesterday until Monday after the first direct evidence so far given against the three defendants. The state struck back at the defense, which said the three defendants lost money in the closing of the bank, by offering the testimony of Clarence E. Nathaway, deputy banking commissioner, that the defendants had comparatively small sums on deposit when the president, Andrew J. Horvath, fled and the crash came. All, he said, owed the bank money, and one, Sigmond A. Friedlander, still owes $12,248. Mangan and Elmer J. Churchill, the third defendant, paid their loans.

Most of the time has been taken so far with the introduction of records of the bank on which the state intends to build its case. Yesterday about 75 forged notes were read into the record. The state said there were about 490 of these.

Horvath, brought here from Auburn prison as the star defense witness, was considerably excited yesterday at prosecution statements that there were almost 500 forged notes. The day before, his first in court, he sat quiet. Yesterday he became very talkative to the guards and his attorney. A deputy sheriff said later Horvath had said he could not understand where all these forged papers came from, that he had never pleaded guilty to so many forgeries.

The defense has protested steadily against introduction of many exhibits of evidence and against mention of Horvath's bootlegging operations. The state, however, contends the directors knew that Horvath was a "liquor king" and that these things helped it to draw the picture in their true light—that they did not care that the president of the bank was a law-breaker. Particular indictment on which they are being tried charges them with making a false report on the condition of the bank.

FREEMAN WANT ADS BRING RESULTS

Book Publisher, Speed King, Dead

New York, April 22 (AP).—The speed king of the book publishing game, the man who fed the eager eyes a dime dose of culture daily, is dead.

John Wurtz Lovell, who could get a Kipling yarn on the stalls almost as fast as an extra reached the newsboys' hands, died Monday at the age of eighty, but his death did not become known until last night.

In his heyday, he estimated, he was publishing 7,000,000 volumes a year, most of them at ten and twenty cents or so.

Born and educated in Montreal, he took a job as manager of his father's firm, John Lovell & Co., at Rouses Point, N. Y., and in 1882 formed the John W. Lovell Company here.

Those were the days before all the present copyright regulations were thought of, and speed was the first essential. Lovell's men would get a Kipling story off an incoming vessel and rush it to the book plant.

Then, while the presses ground, Mr. Lovell would chuck at his rivals. His publication, in paper covers and 16 and 20 cent editions, of "Soldiers Three," "Plain Tales from the Hills" and "The Light that Failed" beat all competition by four days and cost him $2,500 in advance royalties to Mr. Kipling.

Huckin, Dickens, Thackeray, Shakespeare and Carlyle streamed from his presses, making "Lovell's Library" familiar to millions at bargain prices.

Branching out, he formed other concerns which finally in 1893 were absorbed into the United States Book Company. But the panic of 1893 caught the United States Book Company, and thereafter Mr. Lovell took up real estate.

WHERE DID POSTMASTER SMITH GET THE FERRET?

Spring Glen Postmaster Refuses To Tell and He Is Summoned Before Justice—Hearing Saturday.

The State Conservation Department wants to know where Postmaster Eckert Smith of Spring Glen got a ferret which some time ago the department gave him permission to keep on his premises to make war on the large number of rats which infested one of the buildings.

It is said that the ferret was given to Mr. Smith by a friend. After permission had been received to keep the animal Mr. Smith claims that Game Protector Weed appeared and demanded to know from whom he had obtained it. The information was refused, whereupon Smith was summoned before Justice B. C. West at Napanoch.

The courtroom was crowded when Inspector DeWitt of the Conservation Commission ordered the spectators and Smith's attorney, LeRoy Loubery, from the room. The latter refused to go or to have the hearing held, whereupon the case was adjourned to Saturday, when it is stated that a deputy attorney general will be present to represent the Commission.

Newburgh Invites Schmeling to Lunch

A delegation of prominent Newburgh citizens dropped in at the office of the Chamber of Commerce Friday to extend through Secretary Major Ashton Hart an invitation to Max Schmeling to have luncheon at the Hotel Washington in their city some time during his stay at Greenhill Lodge. Mr. Hart will turn the invitation over to the champion's manager.

In extending the invitation the Newburgh men expressed themselves as being of the opinion that Kingston would get more valuable publicity out of Schmeling's presence than any other means of which they could think. They also predicted a big business boom for this city from May 5 to June 15, the period of the champion's activities at Greenhill Lodge.

Informing of the gigantic welcome planned for Schmeling, the Newburgh delegation asked to have a part in the celebration probably was caused by the information that cameramen from news reel concerns would be present to record the doings for sports fans in all parts of the world. Undoubtedly the hilly city group will carry large signs advertising Newburgh.

There will be a big parade led by the American Legion Drum Corps. It is expected as a feature of the welcome to Schmeling. Merchants will be asked to decorate for the occasion which should turn out to be one of the biggest in the history of Kingston.

Commission Will Be Reorganized

Albany, N. Y., April 22 (AP).—The state emergency unemployment relief commission will be reorganized in the next day or so by Governor Roosevelt, with Charles D. Osborne, former mayor of Auburn, succeeding Phillip J. Wickser of Buffalo, who is resigning. Harry H. Hopkins of New York is expected to become chairman of the commission. He was the first executive director.

Jesse Isador Straus, of New York, the first chairman resigned some time ago. The plans for the reorganization were revealed yesterday after the commission and Mr. Osborne met with the governor.

The commission was reported to have made a final allocation of the remainder of the $20,000,000 fund which was appropriated last summer for relief.

A checkup has revealed that all but a few communities kept the agreement to match state relief funds with local appropriations. Localities which did not do so will not be given any further state funds until they act.

17,000,000 Soviets Pledged To Defense

Moscow, April 22 (AP).—The 17,000,000 members of the Soviet trades unions stood pledged today to come to the defense of their country, if need be, as news dispatches from the Far East told of new charges that Russian "White Guards" were active against the Soviets.

The ninth all-union congress of the trades unions made the pledge for its members last night and, sending greetings to the Red army and to Klement E. Voroshilov, war and navy commissar, called for increased watchfulness, especially in the Far East, against the menace of a bourgeois invasion.

The congress also obligated itself to extend military preparedness to the proletariat and the peasants, with a view greatly to enlarging the already comprehensive "patronage" of the Red army.

"The policy of the Soviets has been, is and always will be one of peace," the congress declared, "but we must be ready to defend our country against imperialist attacks."

Tax Bill Now Faces Extensive Rewriting

Washington, April 22 (AP).—With the hearing of protests and suggestions definitely ended, the Senate finance committee today sought understandings to make possible harmonious rewriting of the House revenue bill within no more than a week.

That the bill would emerge on the Senate floor in far different shape from its present draft appeared a certainty to most Senators. With its total estimated to yield around the billion dollar mark, this measure is largely the product of the dramatic sales tax revolt among the representatives. It was written almost entirely on the House floor, built up amendment by amendment until big enough to do its part in balancing the budget, after having been reduced to a shell by extraction of the general tax on sales.

The process filled it with provisions highly objectionable to treasury officials, to extensive sections of industry and particularly to Wall Street through the heavy taxation proposed for stock and bond transfers. Secretary Mills has given the Senate committee definite alternative recommendations, and many are expected to prevail.

The agreements sought now concerned principally the tariff question. Senator Watson of Indiana, majority leader, said a limitation of tariff items would assure passage of the bill in ten days or two weeks.

With the bill reported by or around May 1, this would leave ample time for conference before adjournment time and also would leave room for passage of the press of necessary legislation still being around.

With little prospect for agreement to cut out all tariff items the idea was to limit them to four: Oil, coal, copper, timber. The first two are now in the bill. Such a limit would shut out the demands for a tariff on plywood, greatly agitated, and also shingles. Butter too has sought protection.

LOIN CLOTHS FOR BEACHES

PREDICATED BY MAGISTRATE

Melbourne, Australia (AP)—"The day is coming when Australians will regard a loin cloth as sufficient covering and when young men will be proud to display fine, manly, sustained figures," declares Police Magistrate Stafford.

The magistrate was commenting upon the activities of the Beach Purify League, which is endeavoring to enforce more decorous behavior on the bathing beaches.

Stafford deplores the law which compels him to fine young men for rolling down their bathing costumes to the waist, and declared himself in favor of less clothing to the dismay of those who are endeavoring to enforce the antiquated neck-to-knee swimming suit of the last generation.

Lawyer M. Randall, watchmaker at Safford & Scudder's Wall street jewelry store, was today displaying a pretty catch of trout caught Thursday at Mt. Tremper. Sixteen speckled beauties made up the catch.

Picking Campaign Staff Puzzles G.O.P. As Three Problems Push To Fore

By BYRON PRICE
(Chief of Bureau, The Associated Press, Washington)

Republican disagreements over selection of a high command for the coming campaign are approaching an acute stage.

In the immediate foreground of the party reorganization problem are three primary difficulties—a shortage of campaign funds, the threat of an insurgent bolt and the prohibition issue.

If the G. O. P. were advertising in the want ad column the desired qualifications for a national chairman would read something like this:

Wanted—A man who is close enough to business to be able to fill up the campaign chest; who is not sufficiently close to business to arouse further antagonism in the liberal wing of the party; and whose views on prohibition will not handicap him in placating either wet or dry.

That is a large order. To date no applicant has quite come up to specifications.

The decision, of course, rests with President Hoover. He seems to be mainly thoroughly undecided as he listens almost daily to a wide variety of advice.

He probably will wait until after the June convention to make up his mind, but it is a question whether the intervening weeks will simplify his problems.

Chance For Hurley Seen.

It became apparent some time ago that the present chairman, Senator Simeon D. Fess, was slated for retirement.

Fess's militant stand for prohibition has stirred insistent protests from moist-to-wet party leaders. Conciliation, a quality needed in a bounteous measure by any chairman, is not the long suit of this Ohio college professor.

For a long time it appeared that another Ohioan, Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, was certain to succeed to the chairmanship. But he is strongly suspected of leaning almost as much toward the wets as Fess does toward the dries, and besides he is not very anxious to give up his cabinet post.

Patrick Hurley of Oklahoma, the secretary of war, would take the job if it were offered to him, and several look.

A Wet-Dry Problem.

Perhaps the biggest problem of all is to organize a general staff which can keep the normal party support in line on prohibition.

In New York, for instance, the organized dries are taking steps already to put on the ballot an independent slate of Presidential electors.

There is food for thought in this particularly when it is recalled that four years ago, with the active support of the organized dries, Mr. Hoover carried New York just by an eye.

British Tariff Wall Doubles on Monday

London, April 22 (AP).—Beginning at midnight next Monday, the British tariff wall against foreign products will be raised to twice its present height.

The import duties advisory committee recommended last night that the duty be raised from 10 to 20 per cent on almost every kind of manufactured product imported into the country, effective at midnight, April 25.

On a limited number of articles the duty will be 15 per cent and for some articles in the luxury or semi-luxury classifications 25 and 30 per cent. On semi-finished steel goods the committee placed a duty of 33 per cent for three months, until it has had an opportunity to fix a more permanent schedule.

Included in the 20 per cent category are most articles of pottery and glassware, cutlery, machinery and tools other than agricultural machinery, and electrical goods.

Others are textile manufactures except yarns, apparel, boots, shoes, saddlery, harness, paper and paper manufactures, rubber and rubber manufactures, wood and wood manufactures, certain canned goods, vegetables, metal furniture and numerous miscellaneous items.

In the 25 per cent category are fruit pulp, unexposed sensitized photographic paper, leather trunks and bags, sporting guns, ammunition, sports goods and games.

HUCKLEBERRY FINN

IF HUCK is a very real little boy to every reader of Mark Twain's "Tom Sawyer" and "Huckleberry Finn," it is because both the author of his story and the artist who illustrated it had real boys for their models.

The Huck Finn Mark Twain wrote about was a childhood acquaintance he portrayed exactly as he was, even to his battered straw hat and the single suspender strap that upheld his patched overalls. "Huckleberry Finn," wrote Mark Twain in his "Autobiography," was Tom Blankenship. Tom's father was at one time town drunkard, so exceedingly well-dressed and unobscured of those days. . . . in Huckleberry Finn I have drawn Tom exactly as he was. He was ignorant, unwashed, insufficiently fed, but he had as good a heart as any had boy. He was the only really independent person, man or boy, in the community, and by consequence he was tranquilly and continuously happy and was envied by all the rest of us.

The Huck Finn the illustrator F. W. Kemble drew was Courland P. Morris, now of Audubon N. J. Mark Twain selected Kemble because he saw a resemblance to Huck in one of Kemble's drawings in Life. Kemble in turn saw Huck in Cour Morris, then sixteen years old, whom he found playing in a public schoolyard in the Bronx. For four dollars a week Cour posed for every character from Aunt Polly to Tom, and it is Cour whom most of us visualize when we think of Huck Finn. Cour himself many years later confessed that he spent the weekly four dollars for candy!

"Much Enduring Love"
Translated freely, the Hawaiian expression "Aloha nui loa" means much love or lots of affection. The word Aloha is one much used in Hawaiian and it has a number of meanings, the exact one depending on the context. In this case it means love or affection. Nui is a superlative, meaning much or plenty, while loa is another very useful word, which in this case conveys the idea of eternity. The expression might be otherwise rendered "Much enduring love."

Dead Jungle Dinosaurs

Food for Living Things

It is a fact that the carcasses of dinosaurs are rarely found. But for that matter, travelers come upon the bones of very few of the other animals of the jungle, though hundreds of them roam the every year.

In the tropics, where every living thing is eternally hungry and where life is a constant struggle for existence, a dead body has little chance for permanence. A dying elephant seeks out a quiet place where he can be alone with his strange experience, but that is not the reason why man seldom sees more than a few bones of a dead elephant. Small animals, vultures—all serve speedily to dispose of the dead. Nature's own sanitary methods quickly obliterate the being which has served her own purposes. A few hours is usually sufficient to do away with a carcass; that is why few dead elephants are found.

It is for the same reason that of the millions of mighty creatures that walked the earth in prehistoric times, so few comparatively have left unmistakable evidence that they existed.

Only the animals which died in circumstances especially favorable to their preservation, such as those buried in swamps or by sands, are found now, to be mounted in museums and reconstructed for students.

Fighting Men Quick to Appreciate the Horse

It is generally held that the horse came originally from beyond the Euphrates, in Armenia, where Noah's ark was stranded, and where the ark still runs wild. Its value, as a war charger and chariot or cavalry horse, soon caused it to be tamed and exported to other countries, and Bible students will remember that Holofernes had 12,000 mounted archers (Judith II:15). Probably the Egyptian horsemen, which accompanied Joseph and his brethren on their pilgrimage to Canaan for the purpose of burying Jacob in the grave of his ancestors, were cavalrymen sent by Pharaoh, to protect the caravan from prowling bands of mounted Bedouins.

Syria, and no doubt heathen Canaan, employed horses in war, but the Israelites were forbidden to imitate them and in obedience to divine command hamstring any of the chargers they captured. Job, who may have lived long before the Exodus, knew the horse only as a fleet, strong and handsome animal to be used in war. His description of the noble animal (Job XXXIX) as translated in the Authorized Version of the Bible, will always be admired by horsemen, indeed by all who feel the thrill of majestic, perfectly expressed language.

Rock-Carved Buddha

On the face of a jagged wall in a grotto in western Tibet there exists, sculptured out of the virgin rock, a mighty Buddha. The grotto was hollowed out and the image built within it probably several hundred years ago, as a modified form of Buddhism has been the chief religion of Tibet for many centuries. Buddhism, as a religion, was launched by Prince Gautama in the valley of the Ganges, in India, six hundred years before Christ. It gradually moved northward and eastward, and today there are very few Buddhists left in India proper. Most of the Buddhists of the world are found in Burma, Indo-China, Siam, Tibet, China and Japan.

Poem "Wrote Itself"

The poem "Mighty Lak a Rose" was written by Frank Stanton, Sr., at a time when his infant son was very ill. He is quoted as telling of it as follows: "One night when I came home from the office I stole upstairs to his crib and looked down into his feverish little face, and I tell you my heart nearly broke, for fear he was going to die. His mother and grandmother were standing by me, and he was asleep. 'Isn't he the sweetest little fellow? He's just like a rose,' said his grandmother. 'I want to my room, picked up a piece of copy paper and the poem wrote itself.'"

Real Meaning of "Trade"

The word trade springs from medieval English and originally meant a path or road and is connected with the word tread, meaning walk or proceed. Beginning with the Hanseatic league, it took on a special reference to the path of ships. A ship going to China was bound on the China trade or path to China. As barter was always associated with such voyages, the word trade gradually began to take on more significance in relation to the business of the voyage than to the voyage itself. Hence, foreign trade and domestic trade became standard terms in the language.

Inspiration From the Past

It is to the Greeks that we owe the Doric, Ionic and Corinthian columns which still decorate so many of our churches. Among the famous Roman temples which have given inspiration for modern churches and public buildings may be cited the Maison Carree at Nimes, which was the model for the Richmond (Va.) state capitol and for the Madeleine in Paris. The Roman Pantheon, which gave the idea with its great dome for St. Sophia in Constantinople and St. Peter's in Rome and many another church, is perfectly preserved and is used today as a church.

Fishing Hole

Talking down into the water while you are in a boat, says a woman angler, but the movement of feet on the bottom of the boat, or the noise from a motor, can be heard under the water. He says notes are reflected from the surface of the water.

SPORT SLANTS

By Alan J. Gould
(Associated Press Sports Editor.)

Tucked away in the box score summaries of the opening baseball festivities were a pair of lines involving more than passing interest: "Stolen base—Martin."

This means the speed boys are out on the most entertaining gallop since the days when players like Ty Cobb, Eddie Collins, Bob Beecher and Max Carey were tearing up the base paths and making the catcher's life miserable.

Pepper Martin stole only 21 bases last season but he didn't really get under way until the world's series, when he swiped five bases off Mickey Cochrane. Gabby Street has taken the wraps off his youthful outfield star this year and it would not be surprising to see Martin go beyond the 50 mark.

Ben Chapman led both leagues in 1931 by several city blocks in the spectacular art that has come back to usefulness and popularity. The rangy Yankee outfielder stole 61 bases. On this season's opening day against the Athletics he worked a double steal with Lou Gehrig.

Martin and Chapman both have developed rapidly as base-stealers, taking advantage of a situation where the backstops had more or less been lulled into a feeling of security and the pitchers had acquired habits of carelessness in keeping an eye on the runners.

Still a Ways To Go.

It isn't likely that even the new emphasis on base-running will dislodge the modern records for this particular brand of larceny, much less the old marks made by Billy Hamilton and Harry Stovey with the old Philadelphia clubs.

Ty Cobb set the twentieth century mark when he stole 96 bases in 1915. The best National league record within the same period was made by Bob Bescher of Cincinnati who stole 50 in 1911.

Stovey ran wild in 1888 when he was credited with 156 stolen bases but that was before the catching defense was perfected.

Hamilton, in 1891, under conditions more or less the same as today, stole 115 bases and this is generally recognized as the best-on-record.

He Stands And Waits.

What makes Max Bishop of the blond hair and fognhorn voice so hard to pitch to?

Lefty Gomez was asked this question after he had walked the Athletics' leadoff man four straight times in the opening game but he couldn't give a definite solution.

"I can't figure it out myself," responded Lefty. "This Bishop just stands there and takes 'em and the umpires call 'em balls. He doesn't look or act any tougher to pitch to than anybody else. Of course he must have a great sense of distance."

Some of the boys think Max has walked so often that he has the arbiters convinced he knows as much as they do about the difference between a ball and a strike. If Max lets 'em go by, they say, the umpires figure the chances are in favor of a ball.

But this, of course, is not to be taken seriously. Bishop simply combines a good eye with the ability to control that impulse to smack at balls on the border line.

Bishop twice has equalled the American league record of receiving five tickets to first base in a single game. After four straight walks in the opener Gomez finally forced Max to fly out to Chapman.

Johnny Raymond to Meet Marty Lucia At Servicer

The semi-final of the amateur boxing program at the Servicer on Friday night, April 29, will bring together Johnny Raymond, pride of East Kingston and Marty Lucia, midweight protégé of Italian Jack Herman, well known professional fighter who several years ago was among the top notchers.

Lucia, a rugged little Italian weighing 155 pounds signed for the match with Raymond yesterday. "Doc" Studer announced this morning, saying he believed the High Park youth would give the East Kingston knockout artist one of the toughest scraps he has had to date.

Raymond has stopped a number of the best amateur middleweights available and has no fear of Lucia. He intends to continue his winning streak which includes a technical knockout over Gabe Vossick of Sanger. Johnny handed the northern Ulster battler a terrible shellacking at the last card of bouts at the Servicer and in a previous flaic exhibition bowled over Harry Porter, hard-hitting Poughkeepsie negro.

The Raymond-Lucia match is expected to pack the house. The East Kingston boy is becoming more and more popular every time he fights. He never refuses a match because he likes to scrap, choosing that means of keeping himself in condition.

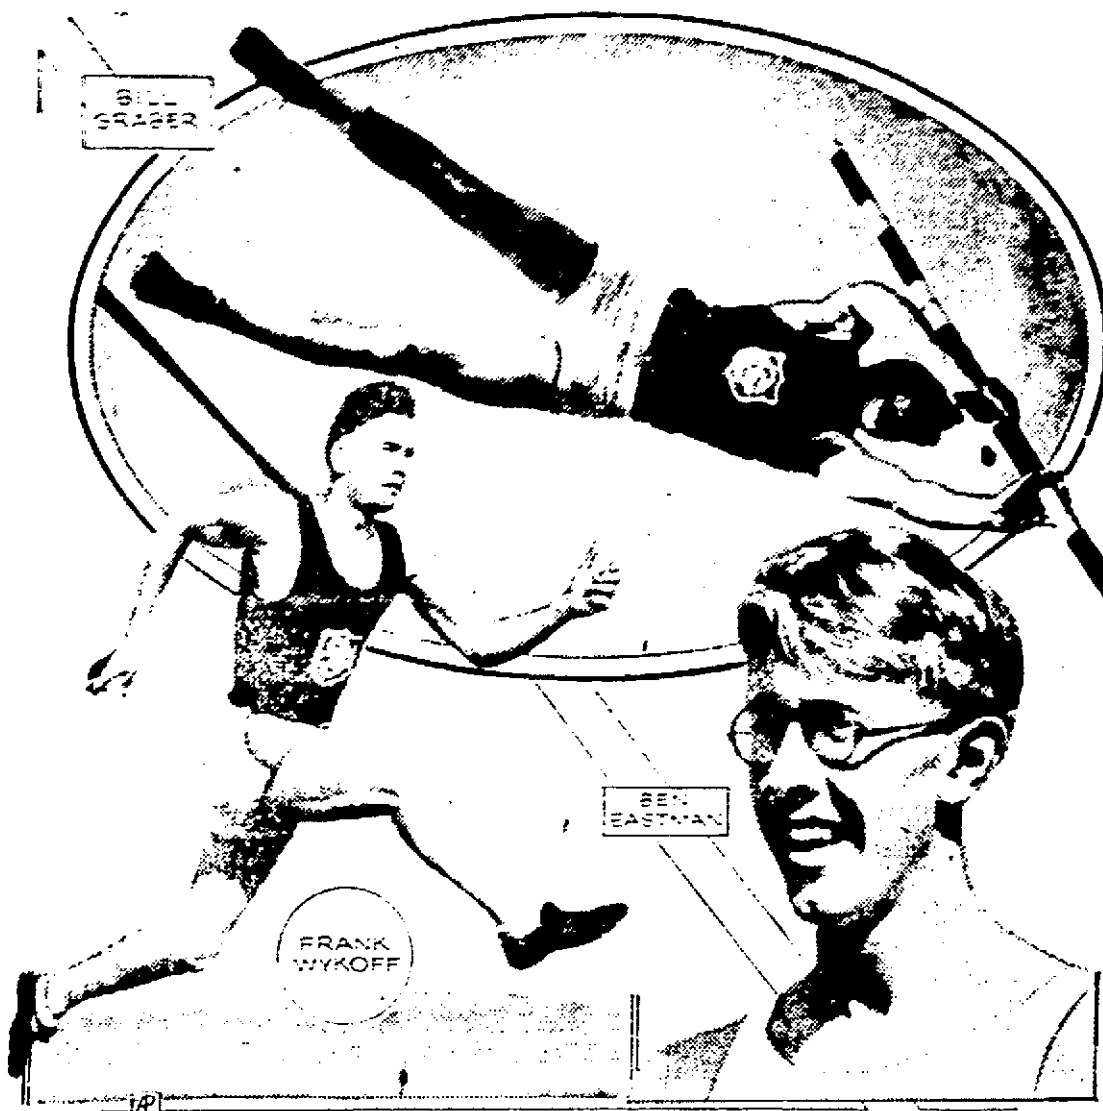

Raymond will meet Jack Feldman of Schenectady at Poughkeepsie on May 10 for the middleweight championship of the Amateur Federation of Sports Clubs.

Topping the card for Friday, April 29, is the heavyweight engagement between Jack Jerry Wright, amateur champion, and Big Boone Shultz of Port Jervis. This ring war is expected to be one of the best punching duels seen here in some time, with the champ favored to win.

Stanford, Trojan Dual Track Meet Now "Straw Vote" Test Of I.C. 4-A.

With little on the horizon to prevent either Southern California or Stanford from walking off with the I. C. 4-A track title this year, the winner should be tabbed by a dual meet of the schools April 30 at Los Angeles. The champion Trojans with such stars as Frank Wyckoff, sprint king, and Bill Graber, pole-vaulter, are favorites. Stanford's chief hope is Ben Eastman, who recently bettered the quarter and half mile world's records.

Schmeling Sure of His Automobile Rides

The latest news concerning Max Schmeling's coming to Kingston is that automobile dealers are vying for privilege of furnishing the champion with a car in which to travel about this vicinity during his stay at Greenkill Lodge.

Secretary Ashton Hart of the Chamber of Commerce said that several automobile dealers have approached him on the proposition of furnishing the champ with a car and all were so insistent that the honor will probably have to be shared with each dealer getting a chance to loan Maxie a car for a specified time.

The champion is expected to arrive in Kingston on Monday, May 9. His camp at Greenkill Lodge will be officially opened the next day and from then on he may be seen in workouts for his big battle with Jack Sharkey in New York on June 16.

If tentative plans materialize Schmeling will get one of the most elaborate welcomes ever given to anyone visiting Kingston. Sports enthusiasts and business men of this city are ready to extend the champ every courtesy possible. Undoubtedly he will receive the hospitality very graciously, being prompted in the act by his astute managers, Joe Jacobs and Bill McCarny. The latter will visit Kingston Saturday to confer with members of the Chamber of Commerce in completing plans for Der Maxie's arrival.

This Game of Golf

By C. B. KESLER

Sometimes I fancy the ladies (bless 'em!) fight each other more ferociously than the gentlemen fight each other, in golf tournaments. Take the final bout in the recent North and South championship for women, at Pinehurst.

Since then I have been trying to think of a harder battle I have witnessed between members of the so-called sterner sex. No can do.

A few of the particulars will illustrate.

Mrs. O. S. Hill, Western champion, and Miss Maureen Orcutt, defending North and South champion, went to the last round, as nearly everybody expected, though Mrs. Hill had a terrific struggle with Miss Margaret Maddox of Atlanta, former Southern champion, present Georgia titleholder, and a newcomer at Pinehurst.

Miss Maddox started brilliantly against the Kansas Cityan and was 3 up through the sixth green. Then up through the sixth green, made no more mistakes, and won at the last green, 2 up.

Number Five.

The final match was Mrs. Hill's fifth meeting with Miss Orcutt, whom she had defeated a fortnight earlier in a grand battle at Augusta, Ga. Each player had won two of the four previous engagements. Mrs. Hill had been co-medalist at Pinehurst with Mrs. Charles Harbaugh of Cleveland, at 85 in a sweeping gale. Miss Orcutt was a stroke behind.

Miss Orcutt swept through her first three matches by margins of 9-7, 6-5 and 5-4. Mrs. Hill won the first two easily and the semi-final with Miss Maddox rather desperately.

Against Miss Orcutt, the Western champion started hard, going 1 up at the first green, with a perfect par 4. In the ensuing combat she was 1 up five times. Miss Orcutt caught her every time. Miss Orcutt was never up until the last green—which is a great place to be up.

"Where I lost the match, I think," said Mrs. Hill, "was that I simply could not get a lead of 2 up. There's a world of difference in being 2 up and only 1 up, in a hard match."

See-Saw.

Mrs. Hill was up at the first, square at the third; up at the fifth, square at the seventh; up at the eighth, and square at the ninth. She went up up at the tenth and held that lead through the eleventh and twelfth.

She took a hard jolt at the thirteenth when, her own drive in the huge cross-bunker, Maureen's tee-shot, hit too low, caught the bank of the same bunker, and hopped upward and forward, to lie in the fairway a yard from the rim, giving her a good shot at the green. Square again.

Mrs. Hill, outranged 80 yards at the fifteenth, planted a full spoon shot inside Maureen's pitch for a half, and went up for the last time when Maureen was badly bunkered at the sixteenth.

Now listen. With Mrs. Hill up by the pin for a men's birdie 4 at the long, seventeenth, Maureen sank a 30-foot putt for an eagle 3, to square the match again.

After being trapped from the tee and far off line on a rough bank with a great recovery, Maureen then sank a 20-foot putt for the match at the last hole.

Deuced severe, those ladies!

Tagging Major League Bases

Shires and Urbanski Combine Four Hits to Help Braves Beat Brooklyn, 6-3—Terry and Cochrane Register Homers.

(By The Associated Press.)

The Boston Braves apparently have found a much needed batting punch in their two prize young infielders, Art Shires and Bill Urbanski.

"The Great" Shires, talking much less and playing a lot more baseball than on his previous visit to the majors two years ago, at last is proving he is a first baseman, and Urbanski, who was only fair at third base after joining the club in mid-term last season, looks like a real star at short.

With the veteran Rabbit Maranville to balance things at second base, they have made a smart combination and have had much to do with planting the Braves at the top of the National League race. Both Shires and Urbanski were hitting at a .370 clip through yesterday, and they have been getting them where they count.

Fritz Kothke, another rookie whom Manager Bill McKechnie has installed at third, hasn't shown any indication he will burn up the league at bat, but his fielding has been first rate.

Between them, Shires and Urbanski accounted for four runs to help beat Brooklyn, 6 to 3, before yesterday's opening crowd of 20,000 at Boston. Urbanski drove in a pair, while Shires knocked a run across and scored another. "Red" Worthington knocked in two more with a double.

Terry's Fifth Homer.

The day's best individual feat was at Philadelphia, where Bill Terry of the Giants slapped his fifth home run in three days to tie the major league record and provide a 5 to 4 victory over the Phillies. Fitzsimmons held the Phils to six hits.

The Chicago Cubs collected only four blows off St. Johnson, but two walks, a sacrifice, an error and Bill Herman's single scored two runs in the eighth and gave them a 3 to 2 win over Cincinnati. The last place St. Louis Cardinals lost again at Pittsburgh, 7 to 6 in 10 innings. Lloyd Waner's double scored Grace with the deciding run.

Cochran's Blow Sinks Yankees.

Mickey Cochrane's ninth inning home run with the bases loaded was the blow that sank the Yankees, 8 to 6, in the American League's main attraction. Al Simmons hit one in the fourth with Cochrane on to further aid the Athletics' cause.

Detroit's surprising Tigers took over first place all by themselves by defeating Cleveland, 5 to 3, while the Washington Senators were dropping a tight one to Boston, 1 to 0. The Tigers made only six hits off Mel Harder, but bunched four of them in the fifth and sixth.

Oliver's double and McManus's single after two were out in the seventh provided the Red Sox with However, in bowling the locals came back to take the match. Total pins were Kingston, 2645; Nyack, 2528, giving Kingston 117 pins more than its opponent. In chess Kingston was represented by Aaron Dornbush, but he was defeated.

Kingston's basketball team will be picked from the following men: Smith, Joyce, Krum, Cullum, Fuchsie, Follette, Van Dusen, Post, Fox, Strong, Schreiber, Rhymer, Moore, Houghtaling and G. and W. Schline.

Samuel McWhinney, 49, was arrested at Highland Thursday by Sergeant Lockhart and booked at the Essex county jail as a fugitive from justice. This morning two officers from Middlesex county, Conn., arrived and took McWhinney back to them for arraignment before Justice Sherwood M. The pin disappeared from a safe in the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stewart at Westbrook, Conn., last summer. McWhinney, who had been employed about the Stewart home during the summer, left the place shortly after the information was lodged against him last October. He came to Highland, where he had been previously employed, about a week ago.

Kingston High Plays Ellenville Saturday

The Maroon varsity plays its first real game of the season Saturday afternoon on the Kingston Fair Grounds, when it meets Ellenville High in a DUSO League battle. This game will be a good beginner for Kingston. The time for starting will probably be 2:30.

Kingston in its game with the Alumni last Wednesday afternoon was successful in that it won 2-1. This was rather an upset but at the same time it proved what the boys can do even against a group of seasoned ball players. A little improvement with the stick will make a winning ball club of the Maroon.

It is hard to say anything about the outcome of the game Saturday. Nothing is known about the Ellenville nine. It may be strong and then again it may be very weak. Still the boys are prepared for the worst. Other DUSO games Saturday are: Port Jervis at Newburgh; Ellenville at Kingston; Liberty at Monticello.

Tellier Leads By Defeating Kaslich

Julius Tellier shows the way in the tournament for the billiard championship of Kingston. Friday night at the Kaslich parlor he defeated the crafty Steve Kaslich 111 to 90 in the first block of their 300-point match.

The battle lasted for 38 minutes during which the score was tied several times. Kaslich broke into the lead only once, however, shooting ahead 79-72 in the 28th frame. Thereafter he came through with a neat break shot and needed only 12 to 20 out but scratched.

Tellier taking his turn ran off 15 to make his first 100 balls but had to complete the rack, according to the rules, making his total 111. The next block will be played Monday night at the Kaslich parlor. Wall and John streets. A record crowd is expected to witness it.

Octopus Slippery Fee

Although the octopus is a terror of the deep, its body is relished by its large enemies, but if attacked by a great fish it will often come out to sea in the light, for it ejects a quantity of sepia which darkens the water. It will also use this as a smoke-screen when attacking, for its powerful eyes are able to penetrate the darkened water, while the object of its search is probably lost in the cloud. The sepia in its body makes it a valuable object to capture in the seas where it is found this is not difficult, for the octopus is a creature of shallow and usually clear water. But it can escape through exceedingly small crevices, as those who have tried to keep one in an aquarium have found to their cost.

ST. MALO, BRITTANY

St. Malo's Ferry on Wheels.

(Prepared by National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.—WNY Service.)

ST. MALO, old Brittany seaport, is a charming party dress for the celebration in May of the four hundredth anniversary of Brittany's annexation to France.

Without "fancy dress" St. Malo is a charming, picture book town of the French north coast. Along the water front, in the shadow of the city's old walls, visitors stumble upon groups of old salts, smoking stubby pipes as they spin yarns of the sea. Nearby their sturdy boats are clustered in the harbor.

Within eyeshot of the yam-tellers, new St. Malo reveals itself: splendid beaches with modern hotels and gambling casinos in the background. Where fish nets once were dried and repaired, "aliens"—vacationists from England, France, and other parts of Europe—are swinging tennis rackets on smooth courts, tapping croquet balls, building castles of sand and seaweed, flying kites, shivering from dips in the chilly waters of the English channel, and sliding under canvas shades with nothing more to do than to watch their favorite dogs dig holes.

Once are the days of the corsairs when St. Malo's mariners ranked among the bravest afloat. The grizzled sons of the corsairs who made England hot with rage for lost ships and who carried the name of St. Malo around the world through the half century before 1825, now sail forth to battle with the gully-tinted herring and the peaceful oyster. An annual fishing cruise to the grand banks of Newfoundland is the longest venture. The stores of merchants who staked fortunes on a single privateering expedition now have other owners, whose modern show windows display bathing suits or high-heeled shoes. St. Malo no longer needs to dare the waves in search of foreign booty. Instead of fleets and armies, excursion boats come with tourists. Syncopated music and the ivory ball tinkle in the casinos until dawn.

The old lure of the sea, and the stout Breton heart persist.

Once Home of Corsairs. In the years of its greatness, St. Malo hung to the winds of every clime the colors of France and its own corsair flag of blue with the white cross and sleeping ermine. "No other city in France was so well known in the Americas and the Indies. One of its sons gave Canada to France, another captured Rio de Janeiro, another blockaded the Ganges, another took Madras. St. Malo's toll of English shipping was set at 382 warships and 4,510 merchantmen.

England and Holland sent fleets and armies to batter down the "scourge of the seas." St. Malo fought back as blithely as it fought with kings of France, dukes of Brittany, or its own triple-headed government. The city of corsairs loved to fight either on the water or on its own rocky isle.

Today, as then, the tide rises and falls twice in each 24 hours—30 feet ordinarily, more than 40 when the sea runs full. Castles of sand and seaweed disappear at the flood, the scars of the day are smoothed and the waves break against the Twelfth century ramparts.

The fortified islands stand out black against the setting sun. Clear above the serrated hills of steep roofs the crenelated spire of old St. Vincent's pricks the sky of mottled red and green. Grim structures of steel-gray granite, flecked with mica which sparkles in the sun, slope down to the broad ramparts and the squat towers of the citadel outside. St. Malo of the ages endures.

Blue and white enamel signs immortalize notable personages of St. Malo. In 1839 the names of most of the public squares and of nearly all the streets, except those leading to the principal gates, were changed to honor those who made the town famous.

The list is long. Old names, suggestive of vanished landmarks—Dancing Cat, Broken Drum, Gintony, Common, Laurel, Dames of Light Habits, Big Steps, Little Steps, Harp, Break of Day, Old Butter, Soft Grass, Pillory, Street Sweepers, Hangman—have been changed to make a St. Malo Who's Who. The best known are: Jacques Cartier, discoverer of the St. Lawrence river; Maupertuis, the mathematician; La Mottrie, exposé of quacks; Doctor Broussais, early evolutionist; Porcon de la Barbinie, given a parole by the Algerian pirates and beheaded when he returned; Mahe de La Bourdonnais, captor of Madras and the "gorge" in "Pani and Virginia"; Felice Lamennais, famous agnostic; Archbishop Frézier, whose family antedated Hernán Cortés; De Gournay, France's first industrialist; Admiral Pourtales, wealthy suicide; Count Thevenard, France's first cannon founder, and even Benjamin Franklin, whose ship struck a responsive Malouin chord.

The stone Croix du Fief, now over a street corner, marked the spot on the original ramparts where the bishop's feudal estate started outside the walls. Its fountain is a city water hydrant, but the old statue to the Virgin is in the wall.

Croix du Fief Still There. St. Thomas' Gate bears its name from a chapel. The Breton sailor, when not praying, loved to pray, and St. Thomas was his favorite saint. The gate was endowed with its original shrine by a crew who told their credulous fellow townsmen how the patron had saved them from an octopus that had wrapped its arms about their craft.

The grog was strong in those days and the tale was vivid. When the shrine was built, however, the sailors divided St. Thomas' glory, adding to his statue a painting of themselves shooting the octopus from a yardarm. Through the city gate from the beach, across the Chateaubriand square and a few steps up the street of the same name, the Venelle aux Chats (Alley of Dogs) branches off to the left. It is so straight and narrow that it might be mistaken for a highway. In 1155, when St. Malo was comparatively young, 24 watchdogs were purchased in England to guard the corsairs' beach, and it was from these dogs that the street took its name.

In those days St. Malo did not have its inner harbor, where the tides are cheated by locks; its tidal harbor, where 300-ton steamers tie up to the pier and gradually settle down on dry land until the water returns to float them off, or the other works of granite which now make it a port. Tides were the same, and the wooden ships lolled on their sides on the beach while crews made merry within the walls.

Each night at ten, when the great bell rang the "cover fire," the dogs were unleashed on the beach as a menace to thieves and a warning to moist but honest sailors against overstay-ing shore leave.

Founded by a Welshman.

The modern St. Malo was only three years old when the dogs were purchased, but the city was ancient even then. In the sixth century, a hermit named Aaron had a hut of stone on the rock opposite, where formerly had stood the Gallo-Roman city of Aleth, now St. Servan. One day a holy man called Malo, Maclow, Maclon, Machut, or Maclouin came over the waves from Wales in a homemade stone dug-out. According to his memory, he had been born in 520. With the hermit Aaron as an audience, the visitor held religious services on the back of a complaisant whale. The taciturn Malouin has neither sagas nor script and may have confused his patron with Jonah. But no caring historian has proved the tale false.

Malo from Wales built a hut of his own and started to perform miracles. By 690, he had been canonized, and his skull and an arm bone were brought back. Charlemagne's warriors destroyed church and city in 811, and Charlemagne restored them. Otherwise, early life in St. Malo was uneventful.

In 1098 was born Jean de Châtillon, better known to Malouins as Jean de la Grille, from the iron latticework put over his tomb to prevent pious souvenir hunters from carrying off his body piece-meal. He was the founder of the St. Malo that stands today. When he became bishop of Aleth, in 1144, most of his flock lived across the bay, on Aaron rock, the site of the present St. Malo. His predecessor had given the rock to the Benedictine monks, and it was only after eight years, during which Jean made four trips to Rome on foot, that the Pope ordered the Benedictines to return the rock.

In 1155 he started the walls that still form the sea face of the ramparts. So well were they built that they withstood enemy cannon fire and the pound of angry waves throughout the centuries. Jean was both temporal and spiritual ruler. In his time immense establishments of the church and holy orders in the little city elbowed merchant corsairs' imposing storehouses and mansions with double floors and two story cellars cut into the rock to hide sea booty from tax collectors. The Rue Jean de Châtillon of the present day leads past narrow stone stairways, dark passages, and vast caves that date from the time of the warlike bishop.

Rebeld by its ramparts, St. Malo had no room to grow. Its gray stone houses were built high and close, and cellars were deep.

The voyages of St. Malo husbands were long. The population increased only 12% a year for 20 years.

Today a rustic policeman stands inside St. Vincent's Gate, stopping automobilists from driving up the crowded main street and advising them to leave their cars outside the walls, as the little city can be crossed in a few steps.

Electric Pump Display

A display of Myers electric pumps
in the show window of the Herzog Hardware and Paint Company store on Wall street attracts considerable attention. An electric pump attached to a pressure tank pumps a continuous stream of water from a faucet.

Financial
And Commercial

New York, April 22 (AP).—A fresh relapse in the stock market virtually cancelled the recovery of the previous session during the earlier trading today, but the list steadied after midday. The market was a thin affair.

Declines of 2 to 3 points carried such issues as U. S. Steel, American Can, Standard of N. J., Air Reduction, and Case to new lows for the bear market. American Telephone, Union Pacific and Norfolk and Western lost about 4 points, and issues off 2 to 3 at the lowest included
Public Service of N. J., Consolidated
Gas, Eastman, Allied Chemical, Coca Cola, American Tobacco B. Liggett and Myers "B" and others. Pressure subsided by early afternoon, however, and recoveries of from fractions to a point were numerous.

Wall Street was somewhat encouraged by the weekly bank statements, showing further results from the credit expansion program. The fact that the expected reduction in the New York rediscount rate failed to materialize, however, while not regarded as important in banking quarters, may have prompted some quick profit taking.

Some of the early selling looked like further liquidation of collateral loans, and when such selling appears, speculators for the rise are quick to retire.

The most encouraging aspect of bank statement was the gain of $47-600,000 in "all other," or commercial loans, shown by the New York member banks. This is the first increase in commercial loans in some weeks, and some observers thought reflected efforts of the reserve authorities to induce a more liberal lending policy.

The brokerage loan statement seemed to indicate, furthermore, that money was being driven out of the New York market back into the interior where it is needed. Although there was a net increase in brokers' loans of $19,000,000, out of town banks cut down their loans to brokers here by $15,000,000.

Wall Street was somewhat uneasy by forecasts that U. S. Steel would omit the 50-cent quarterly payment on the common next Tuesday.

The monthly report of cigarette production, showing a substantial drop, may have influenced some selling of the tobacco.

Work at Court
Room Progressing

The work of painting the court room is progressing and the work should be completed in time for the opening of the May term of supreme court. A very attractive shade of cream has been applied to the ceiling which is completed and a second coat is being applied to the sidewalls. All varnish has been removed from the wood-work and benches and a coat of varnish has been applied. The woodwork has been materially lightened by the removal of the old dirty varnish. All of the work being done will be paid for from an adjustment of insurance due to a recent fire in the boiler room of the court house.

Famous Fossil Fields
of Northeastern Utah

The finds of dinosaur and other prehistoric reptilian remains uncovered in the Dinosaur National monument, in the northeastern part of Utah, have never been duplicated in any other part of the world in number or scientific interest. A great variety of material has been taken from this fossil field, which was discovered in 1905 by Prof. E. B. Douglass of the Carnegie Institute of Pittsburgh, and who explored the place year after year until the work was taken up by the Smithsonian Institution. Altogether more than 400,000 pounds of material, including bones and matrix, have been taken from the quarry, and many skeletons, some of which are practically complete, have been secured. The most remarkable prize secured was the complete skeleton of the largest Dinosaur known to science—"The Apatosaurus Louisa," as it was named in honor of Mrs. Andrew Carnegie. It is 100 feet long and 20 feet high and stands in the Hall of Vertebrate Paleontology in Pittsburgh.
Probably in life it weighed 20 tons.

Baby Resembling
Lindbergh Child
Found At Brewerton

Syracuse, N. Y., April 22 (AP).—
Syracuse police, investigating what they considered a possible "hot tip" in the Lindbergh kidnapping case, announced this afternoon they had found a child resembling Charles Augustus Lindbergh, Jr., on a farm near Brewerton and were bringing into the city under an open charge a
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Scott.

The Scotts had lived at the farm about two weeks. They said they were the grand-parents of the child and that his name was Bernard Arthur Lafault. Sheriff Sleigh said the child appeared to be "a dead ringer" for the Lindbergh baby. He had a picture of the kidnapped baby in his hands.

The blonde boy, of an age, too, fitting that of the Lindbergh baby who has been sought since March 1, was being brought to Syracuse in company of deputy sheriffs.

The Scotts are middle aged and said they came from Myra, near Albany. There is no Myra listed in the postal directory. The mother of the boy, they said, is teaching school in Burlington, Vermont.

MAYOR GETS WEALTH AND TROUBLES COME

They Struck Oil on Mother's Farm in Texas.

New York.—J. Malcolm Crim, mayor of Kilgore, Texas, settled himself into an easy chair at the Hotel New Yorker and delivered himself of a lecture on the future of being wealthy.

"I'm saying 'top,' he said, "while I'm in New York. But it won't last long. You can't enjoy yourself when you get rich. Look at me."

Crim, in his own words, was "just a poor country boy" until December, 1924, when they struck oil on his mother's farm. Now he has so much money that he can't keep track of it.

Crim explained that he doesn't hanker for publicity. "One day they put a picture of me in the papers after the well came in," he said, "and I'm still getting letters. Every mortgage in the world was being foreclosed. People wrote me even from Russia that their mortgages were being foreclosed and would I please give them a little dough."

He Ran General Store.
Crim was elected mayor of Kilgore a year ago when the town was incorporated. Prior to his acquisition of wealth he ran a general store.

"I sold everything," he said, "from cradles to coffins."

"I never went in for politics," he explained. "I never even heard of this fellow Garner till lately. But I took the job as mayor because the town was getting overrun with the wrong kind of people. I took a census in January and there were 800 people in town. I took another one in March and there were 15,000 people there."

"We didn't have any streets worth mentioning, no water, no sewer system, no nothing. Some of those streets were so bad a snake couldn't crawl on them."

Used Church for Jail.

Crim said he hasn't erected any public buildings in Kilgore "except a church."

"We used the Baptist church for a jail," he said. "Then we got a little jail built and they used the church for a dance hall. Finally some fellow came into town one Sunday and set fire to our two churches. Burnt 'em down. So that made me mad. I built a Presbyterian church to get even."

Since he became wealthy, Crim said, he has been kept so busy he hasn't had a chance to enjoy life.

"It used to be," he said, "that I could take a vacation. Now I can't. I'm waiting here now for Mrs. Crim. She's coming in today from a Mediterranean cruise. I couldn't go because I was too busy."

Air Force Figures

Worry to Britain

London.—British aeronautical authorities are much concerned over Great Britain's increasingly inferior position of its air corps, as revealed by armament statistics, which most of the nations have submitted to the League of Nations for consideration.

A study of these statistics shows that Great Britain is now fifth in numerical air strength and is rapidly being overhauled, even by Jugoslavia.

Statistics submitted to the league by the various nations show their relative strength in first line aircraft and their total strength with all reserves as follows:

	First line aircraft.	Total with all reserves.
France	1,857	3,000
Great Britain	704	1,224
Italy	1,224	1,507
Poland	400	700
Czechoslovakia	546	687
Spain	462	643
Jugoslavia	627	824
Rumania	559	799
U. S. of America	1,752	2,251
Japan	1,224	1,319

It is believed, however, that Great Britain's numerical inferiority is considerably offset by the exceptionally high standard of her air force personnel and the superiority of her types of pursuit planes to those of most of the other nations.

Peon Class of Mexico

Has New Independence

Los Angeles.—Recent political activities in Mexico have resulted in new found independence to the laboring classes. Dr. James H. Batten, director of the Inter-American foundation, who was a recent visitor here, declared, "The revolution in Mexico," he said, "has brought a new found independence to the laboring class of the country and is the beginning of a movement which finally will result in true democracy and a republican form of government."

College Day Romances

Prove Most Binding

Granville, Ohio.—Romances between boys and girls of Denison university bind couples far more securely than those in the great "outside" world, according to compiled records. Out of 250 campus marriages at the school have come only five divorces. It is an average of one marriage failure to each 50 weddings. The national average is one failure for each five or six marriages.

They Were Bogus Officials

B, LEETE STONE

WITHOUT an invitation it appeared that Melodrama rode with the brothers Brown, Joe and George, as they piloted a heavy-laden truck down the Westchester reaches of the Boston Post road toward New York—Joe at the wheel, George general helper.

It happened on one of those flagrant April mornings that seem to give the everlasting life to Death, Destruction, Tragedy and Tragedy by reason of a balmy, soft atmosphere and a feel of hope and life everlasting.

Joe and George were hungry after an all-night drill from a small seaport on the upper sound, but notwithstanding their hearts beat in unison with the peaceful pulse of spring. A hard winter was behind; today was not only another day; it was another year with all the rich promise that imagination is heir to.

As if to put the morning with the perfect seal of peace, along the road as they reached the upper Bronx suddenly appeared the reassuring figure of a policeman in a touring car, with two men in the rear seat. The car spun easily by Joe and George in leisurely fashion. The brothers did no turn to look after it.

They missed seeing the car turn, just after it passed, and slowly trail them for several blocks. Without warning it lurched up beside the heavy-laden truck and a blue-clad arm waved its familiar, compelling gesture. No mistaking authority. The two men in the rear of the car displayed shiny detectives' badges.

"Let's see your consignment papers—your bill of lading," the policeman barked.

"We ain't got none; didn't know it was necessary," Joe offered in conciliatory tones.

"Certainly it is! You ought to know that." The officer stepped onto the short running board of the truck.

"What you got in those packing cases?"

"Get down!"

The brothers Brown meekly got down. Events ensuing puzzled the brothers Brown exceedingly. The policeman ordered his two detectives to mount the truck and drive it to headquarters. Then as the big truck gathered way, he ordered Joe and George to get in his car with him.

Whereupon the two brothers, who could not believe that so glorious a morning could sponsor Trouble, embarked on a strange ride. A long, long ride—one that ended on Lancaster avenue, miles away, somewhere near the Indian stadium.

The scene shifts to Officer O'Meara, speed cop, on duty a few blocks away from where the truck was apprehended by the law's arm. Two or three neighborhood bystanders who had witnessed the affair, told him they had just seen a truck seized.

It being a dull, early morning hour, O'Meara decided that he ought to offer assistance and at least get the truck's number. If only to prove that he was "on the job." He pursued the truck at fifty miles an hour or better.

Ten minutes speeding furnished O'Meara with the tall view of the heavy-laden truck. His motorcycle screamed its raucous cry to heaven as he bore down on the machine. Then something strange happened. The great vehicle suddenly slowed down, and two men sprang from the running board of the still moving truck and hopped around the corner of the nearest block.

The veering truck lurched dizzily into a water hydrant. The hydrant toppled over like putty. The front of the truck and O'Meara were drenched in a spouting geyser of water.

Resourceful O'Meara, wet as he was, at once blew his police whistle for reserves. They arrived in a jiffy and the block where the two "detectives" had abandoned the truck was instantly surrounded and a combing search inaugurated. It proved thorough, for at the end of an hour two vigorously protesting "detectives" with shiny badges were dragged without ceremony from a basement.

The masqueraders were taken to the police station and held for robbery. About two hours later, after tedious walking, some slow trolleying and a couple of speedy taxi jaunts, the Brown brothers arrived at the same station to tell their tale of woe and loss; to describe their enforced journey to the hinterlands surrounding the Indian stadium.

O'Meara had just checked in preparatory to going off duty. He heard the brothers addressing the sergeant. "You guys'll find your truck three blocks away draped against a busted hydrant," he spoke somewhat gruffly and closed the door sharply behind him.

The curtain falls on the brothers Brown rolling off in their heavy-laden truck, the seat beneath somewhat damp and squishy—rolling off to a peaceful, proper destination downtown—their load of $30,000 worth of silks dry, intact and ready to be unloaded.
